

Joint Talks Begun With Mediators in Effort to End Strike

Federal Arbitrators Not Hopeful of Early Agreement

New York —(U)— Leaders of the strikebound steel industry and the United Steelworkers met today with federal mediators in the first joint negotiation session since the walk-out began.

Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the federal mediation and conciliation service, reiterated his warning that no early or easy settlement of the 13-day-old strike appears likely.

Finnegan, who arranged the joint talks last week, said on his arrival here from Washington last night:

"They can't settle this strike by not talking."

No Sign of Break

He said he received no indication during the weekend that either side had changed its position. Finnegan had held separate meetings with union and industry representatives since the strike began.

Heading the negotiating teams for today's talks are David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, and R. Conrad Cooper, executive vice president of the United States Steel corporation.

The strike of 500,000 members of the United Steelworkers has shut down plants that produced almost 90 per cent of the nation's steel. The stoppage has idled an estimated 78,000 employees in other in-

West Europe Worries Over Verbal Clash

Diplomats Think Khrushchev, Nixon Should Talk Secretly

London —(U)— Two world statesmen bickering publicly over a kitchen sink provided an alarming spectacle for western Europe, accustomed for hundreds of years to more formal brands of diplomacy.

If row you must, best to row behind closed doors. This was the lesson many western European editors drew from Vice President Richard M. Nixon's verbal duel with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev Friday.

Most observers believed the exchange initially may have heightened President Eisenhower's reluctance to go to a summit meeting. But with the return to more cordial relations between the Soviet leader and the United States vice president, the alarm was abating.

"Fairly Good Fun"

"The vigorous badinage need not be taken too seriously," said Britain's liberal News Chronicle.

"It was all fairly good and not too clean fun, pleasing to people who like what are rather optimistically called frank exchanges and displeasing to those who prefer more traditional forms of diplomacy."

Belgium's Le Peuple said "Nixon so far revealed outstanding qualities" in Moscow. In neighboring Holland, the vice president was praised for keeping his temper under provocation.

"Khrushchev was in rollicking form," said the London Daily Express, "but Nixon in his first essay into the Russian gladiatorial pit acquitted himself admirably."

Exchange Assailed

Nevertheless, the Express maintained, the row was a telling argument in favor of secret diplomacy as the best hope for world peace.

It called the exchange a "disgraceful performance," disclosing a "lack of restraint, which is completely deplorable."

40 Per Cent Surtax Seen

'60 Levy May be Upped From 25 Per Cent Approved for '59

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — The 1959 legislature which recessed during the weekend was a stand-off in the contest between the Democrats in the executive department and in the assembly, and the dominant Republican block in the senate.

Gov. Gaylord Nelson figures he was successful in about half of the specific measures he recommended in his first session as governor.

Translated into familiar income surtax equivalent, the 1960 budget is almost certain to require a surtax of 40 per cent, against the 25 per cent agreed upon by the governor and the legislature for 1959, and the 20 per cent rate effective heretofore.

Source Not Determined

There is no assurance that the choice of money raising will be a surtax. A tax investigating committee will report before the fall session on Nov. 2, and the governor has indicated that he will accept adjustments of tax policies in other directions although he has not specified what he may accept.

Partly because Nelson's relations with the legislature were good on a personal basis, partly because many items in his program did not involve deep ideological differences with the Republicans, many of his bills passed with little difficulty.

The governor ran into resistance, and was defeated, almost every time he asked for something that involved a

Twining Resumes Pentagon Duties

Washington —(U)— Gen. Nathan F. Twining returned to duty today as chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

The air force general has been away from his desk for 11 weeks. He underwent surgery May 12 for removal of a lung cancer.

Twining told reporters who met him at his office that he felt "better than before," than quipped that "it was a hard way to get a rest."

New Hampshire Police In Search for Killer

Crawford Notch, N. H. —(U)— A widespread manhunt was underway today for the man who killed a pulp mill worker after sharing a picnic lunch with him and his wife at the White mountains.

Eli Gendron, 51, of North Woodstock, was shot in the chest yesterday as his wife, Retta, 49, looked on. Another shot clanced off Gendron's artificial left arm.

The gunman then forced Mrs. Gendron to leave the car in which the shooting took place and stole a wallet from the victim's body.

Police said the wallet contained between $175 and $200 in vacation pay.

Tells of Differences With Khrushchev but Calls Discussions Calm

Leningrad —(U)— Vice President Richard M. Nixon flew to Leningrad today to begin a 5-day swing through parts of the Soviet Union.

Soviet Deputy Premier Frol Kozlov and his wife were among those accompanying Nixon and his wife. Also along was Georgi Zhukov, chairman of the Soviet government committee on foreign cultural relations.

Flying ahead were two planes carrying 88 American and foreign newsmen.

The vice president's departure from the Soviet capital was preceded by a weekend visit with Soviet Premier Khrushchev during which they discussed east-west differences for six hours.

Neither side would say whether the marathon talk had boosted chances for removal of the Soviet threat to allied forces in West Berlin. But Nixon said the long exchange was helpful "because it provided an opportunity for frank and complete discussions in a calm and objective atmosphere."

1,000 in Crowd

A crowd of 1,000 greeted the vice president and his party at the Leningrad airport. It was nearly three times the number who turned out for their arrival in Moscow last Thursday.

Two American tourists joined the airport crowd and held up a hastily scribbled "Welcome Nixon" sign. The vice president was delighted.

Although there was no loud-speaker system, Nixon said in a brief arrival speech he and Khrushchev had a "constructive and full discussion of the

Man Dead, 2 Missing in Grand Canyon

Grand Canyon, Ariz. —(U)— National park rangers pressed a search today for two persons missing and believed injured in the depths of the rugged Grand canyon.

The body of a youth tentatively identified as Walter J. Mahoney, about 16, of Savannah, Ga. — a companion of the missing pair — was found yesterday.

Rangers said Mahoney died of exposure and lack of water on a rugged, twisting trail at the bottom of the gorge while apparently seeking help for his friends — a Catholic priest, the Rev. Eugene Cavanagh, 30, a native of Racine, Wis., or-derained a priest in the Trappist Order in 1954, and Mason Owens, 16, both of Savannah.

The three hiked into the canyon Friday. The search began Saturday after tourists on the south rim reported hearing calls for help from deep in the gorge.

Milwaukee Fire Chief Dies of Heart Attack

Milwaukee —(U)— Milwaukee Fire Chief Edward Wischke, head of the department since 1945, dropped dead of a heart attack Sunday. He was 60.

He had suffered several heart attacks earlier and, by physician's order, gave up active fire fighting in 1956 after suffering a mild stroke.

Arrests 159 Persons For Blue Law Violations

Bristol, Pa. —(U)— "There's more than one way to skin a cat," figured Justice of the Peace Earl B. Dougherty. That, he said, is the theory he applied yesterday to Pennsylvania's Sunday blue laws.

Against Blue Laws

Dougherty spent the day driving through Bucks county just north of Philadelphia, handing out 159 conviction-on-sight notices. The recipients included actress Peggy Cass, two toll booth collectors, a radio announcer, numerous plant guards, a druggist, a newspaper, and the reporters and photographers following him.

"I'm actually against the Sunday blue laws," Dougherty said. "They're chaotic and outmoded and if they were strictly enforced would strangle Pennsylvania's entire economy."

"I'm a justice of the peace and it's my duty to enforce the law. So I did."

Here's an example of his method:

He reached the Bristol Playhouse, a summer theater, during the first act intermission and asked to see Miss Cass.

"Are you worldly employed?" he asked, after introducing himself.

"Yes," said Miss Cass. "Are you being paid?"

"Yes."

Say Britain Aims To Reduce Terms

U. S. and France Holding Firm Against Major Changes

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Geneva —(U)— The United States and France were reported holding firm today against British pressure to cut down western terms for a Berlin agreement with Russia and clear the way for an early summit conference.

As the Big Four foreign ministers conference moved into its ninth week, U.S. and British officials sought to play down the difference and deny any threat to allied unity.

Some privately conceded, however, that the maneuvering has created an appearance of weakness under Soviet hammering on critical Berlin and German issues.

Seeks Agreement

Associates said Sec. of State Christian A. Herter is still determined to try to get an agreement from Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko to protect West Berlin. He is reportedly equally determined not to accept any deal which will put a deadline on allied rights there.

British Foreign Sec. Selwyn Lloyd, who conferred with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan over the weekend, reportedly believes that limited assurances already offered by Gromyko are the best the west can hope for and should be accepted conditionally.

Hope Brazil Will Surrender Birrell

Rio de Janeiro —(U)— Two men from the New York office of Dist. Att. Frank S. Hogan arrived in Rio de Janeiro today in the hope they can take Lowell McAfee Birrell back to face fraud charges.

Birrell was arrested July 23 for entering Brazil on a false passport and is being held for deportation. New York authorities had tipped Brazil to pick Birrell on indictments charging stock frauds amounting to $14 million.

Birrell has said he is ready to go back voluntarily.

Girl Killed By Motor Boat

Lynne LaSalle, AHS Student, Hit By Propeller

MacGregor, Minn.—An Appleton High school student was struck and killed by the propeller of a motor boat that passed over her when she was swimming Sunday.

Lynne LaSalle, 17, who lived with her father, Louie C. LaSalle, 1522 N. Nicholas street, was swimming in Big Sandy lake where she was vacationing with her mother, Mrs. Charles McCourtie. Duluth, and stepfather.

The motorboat operator, a Duluth friend of the girl, didn't realize there had been an accident until he reached shore with the water skier he was towing.

Miss LaSalle was swimming alone to a raft about 200 yards from shore when she was struck by the boat.

Castro 'Tells Off' Critics of Regime

Warns U. S. Not to Interfere in Cuba, Tremendous Crowd Cheers As Leader Returns to Post

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN

Havana —(P)— Fidel Castro, swept back into the Cuban premiership as expected, by an enormous popular demonstration, served notice last night he will be friends with the United States only if the United States doesn't get in his way. The spectacular crowd estimated at nearly a million cheered wildly as he told them he would bow to "the will of the people" and resume office. The demonstration again underscored that the bearded, 32-year-old revolutionary leader is Cuba's new strong man.

Huge Cheers

The vast sea of humanity, sent up reverberating cheers as Castro by inference told off critics in the United States.

He asserted that Cuba is not a protectorate or colony of any other country but a free sovereign nation and "we have to account to no one."

Castro said Cuba wants to be friends with all nations but not with those "who offend us, who insult us and who exploit us" nor with any vested interest which tries to "impose itself on the destiny of our people."

Ignores Charges

But in 2½ hours of talk, Castro failed to mention communism by name at all. He referred to it only obliquely, when hitting at his critics, but apparently did not feel it necessary to deny their charges that he is letting the reds influence his government.

Uptown Havana's vast civic plaza was packed with the shouting, cheering throng. Castro told it emotionally that from now on the "symbol of our revolution will be the machete," the long, sharp knife used for cutting sugar cane.

Furious Response

The announcement provoked furious response during which some 400,000 campesinos — farmers — brought from the provinces to swell the demonstration clashed their machetes together in unison to add to the general uproar.

Castro whipped up another ovation when he added that if his enemies should ever think of coming back to Cuba, "let them contemplate for just about five minutes those machetes."

Castro made it clear that such mammoth demonstrations will be held whenever it is considered necessary to demonstrate popular support for his policies.

Will of People

Castro claimed it was only the will of the people that persuaded him to resume the premiership he left nine days ago to force the resignation of Provisional President Manuel Urrutia.

Before the speech, a cabinet minister presented Castro with evidence of recovery of $20 million in cash and $51 million worth of property from collaborators of Batista.

Communities View Damage Of Hurricane

Losses Figured in Millions of Dollars In Gulf States Area

Houston, Texas —(P)— Communities in the water and debris-strewn wake of hurricane Debra surveyed today millions of dollars in damages left by the wind, rain and inconvenience of the tropical storm.

Debra's path extended all the way from the gulf coast chemical and fishing center of Freeport, Texas, into southeastern Oklahoma.

She left behind smashed fishing and pleasure boats, flattened and washed out crops, shattered roofs and windows, felled trees and snarled traffic.

Industry Escapes

Industrial areas, which expected to catch some of the heaviest damage, escaped destruction.

The hardest blows from the storm which burst with only a few hours warning from the ocean were delivered instead to fleets of boats along the gulf.

Small boats were swamped, shrimpers were slammed against pilings and other boats and pleasure craft were washed ashore or banged against docks and boathouses by high and vicious tides.

Among the cities and towns, Freeport apparently suffered heaviest damage.

Damage in Millions

Mayor Jim Russell said it will total $1½ to $2½ million. The police chief at Lamarque said damage at that Gulf coast town will total $1 million.

E. E. Ebard, Harris county deputy sheriff, said an estimated 1,000 small piers were washed away in the La Porte-Seabrook-Kemah area. Homes also suffered damage.

Saw Storm Pass

The 1,200,000 people in Houston saw the storm pass a few miles to the east of the south's largest city. All airline traffic was halted and train and highway travel sharply curtailed, but the city escaped with minor damage.

The storm lost force as it moved inland. Its 80 to 100 mile per hour winds turned into breezes as the storm's main feature became heavy rains. Torrents of up to 15 inches poured down on east Texas, causing minor flooding.

Baker Tells Story of Shooting by Blinking

New York —(P)—A Brooklyn baker, shot in the throat and unable to speak, told his story to police from a hospital bed by blinking his eyes.

Police asked the questions, and he blinked once for yes, twice for no. The baker, Solomon Goldberg, 38, was shot yesterday by two holdup men who jumped him as he entered his car. He struggled with them before he was shot. They escaped with his wallet containing $100.

Goldberg was reported in critical condition today at Kings County hospital.

Job Well Done

Congressmen Praise Nixon for Conduct During Moscow Visit

BY JACK BELL

Washington —(P)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon is proving himself a match for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, in the opinion of several congress members.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader, said that in his opinion Nixon is "making the best of a very difficult and delicate situation" during his visit to Moscow.

"He is rolling with the punches thrown at him by Khrushchev," Mansfield said. "He is also sending back some good punches."

Tough Talk

Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.), a former ambassador, said he thinks Nixon has matched Khrushchev in "directness and toughness" in their informal, caustic exchanges during the vice president's visit.

"Nixon is doing exactly what is needed," Cooper said. "He is talking the only kind of language Khrushchev can understand."

Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa.) said that Nixon's verbal encounter with Khrushchev was a "superb example of courage and intelligence."

Dirksen Comments

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), the senate GOP leader, told a television audience he thinks Nixon has helped both himself and the nation by his actions, and added: "Frankly, I'm quite proud of his performance in the Soviet Union."

Nixon and Khrushchev engaged in a series of spirited exchanges as they toured the American national exposition in Moscow Friday. One discussion was taped and later televised. Another took place in the kitchen area of a model American house on display there.

The two top officials, who met in a long secret session Sunday, told newsmen they considered the Friday exchanges "hard hitting, direct, frank — but not belligerent."

Helps Candidacy

Because Nixon is all but an avowed candidate for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination, there has been a great deal of speculation in congress about the political effect of his trip.

The vice president, seemingly caught off base by Khrushchev's original outburst, came back strong in the later innings. The fact that Nixon tried to be polite and circumspect at first but was willing and able to return shot for shot when he found it necessary, was regarded by political friends here as a sign of their favorite's adaptability to any circumstances.

Meets Match

Along that line, Simpson commented that "for once Khrushchev ran up against a man who refused to be intimidated."

Mansfield, who is no Nixon rooter, said he thinks the vice president stands to benefit at home for the way he has conducted himself thus far in a decidedly cool and often hostile atmosphere.

"Our people are not liking the way he has been treated in Moscow," Mansfield said. "They can sympathize with his difficulties there."

Mother, Lover Get Life Terms

Sentence Fixed for Pair Who Strangled Two Young Children

San Diego, Calif. —(P)—Mrs. Wanda Brogdon and her former lover, Archie Merriam, were sentenced to life imprisonment for strangling her two young sons.

The Rockford, Ill., couple were convicted of first degree murder last Thursday. The same jury fixed their punishment.

Merriam admitted he strangled Virgil Brogdon, Jr., 5, and David, 3, last May 2, but said he did so at their mother's instigation. She denied it.

The prosecution sought death for both Mrs. Brogdon and Merriam.

"I had expected to die," Mrs. Brogdon said. "I wanted to be with my boys."

"It's all been a horrible mistake. I loved my sons. It was all his (Merriam's) idea." Advised that Merriam wanted to see her after the trial, the 33-year-old woman shot back:

"No, no. I hate him! He deserves to die for this horrible thing."

Mrs. Brogdon continued: "I loved him until he did that to my boys. I trusted him."

"Does this mean I'll be in prison the rest of my life?" "Death would have been better. There's no one now."

Johnson Indicates He Will Seek to Avoid Legislative Deadlock

Democratic Leader Says Congress Must Avoid Political Fights

BY JOE F. KANE

Washington —(P)—Bills congress will pass before adjournment will do all that a majority of its members and the president will agree can be done now, says Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson.

Hinting strongly at a willingness to compromise, the senate Democratic leader said he must see that the Democratic - controlled senate avoids a legislative deadlock with the Republican administration.

Congress must do something, Johnson added in a weekend radio-TV talk, even if "we won't do everything that I would like to do."

"I think the people sent us here to do our job rather than to make issues or to play politics," Johnson said.

Commenting on his own role, Johnson said he feels that "the majority leader of the senate must, in effect, try to be a leader of the senate, not just the Democratic party."

Johnson expressed his views during a radio-television program with Sen. Everett Saltonstall (R-Mass) recorded for Massachusetts and Texas stations.

Important Issues

What does Johnson think about these important issues still before congress?

Labor regulation: He predicted passage of a "good" bill.

Housing: He said he expects Democrats to find some area of agreement with President Eisenhower. He made no mention of a possible attempt to override Eisenhower's housing bill veto.

Civil rights: He said he hopes congress will pass a civil rights measure this session, adding "I think it's very important that we have understanding and we have tolerance, but that we make progress."

Vets Benefits

Veterans' benefits: He predicted eventual approval of bill the senate already has passed providing educational and other benefits for veterans who served after the Korean war. The measure in its present form is likely to be vetoed.

Johnson's counterpart on the Republican side of the senate, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, the minority leader, told a reporter he has real hope that a sound program for wheat can be worked out this session.

Dirksen also said he hoped a civil rights measure eventually will get to the senate floor.

Sen. George Smathers (D-Fla) said in a recorded radio-TV program he saw no need for a civil rights bill. Any new measure, he said, would serve "to agitate the situation rather than help it."

New System Keeps Phone Cables Dry

Nitrogen Pumped Into Lead Sheaths To Repel Moisture

Homeowners with houses having damp basements and leaking roofs have nothing on the telephone company, with its miles and miles of underground cables, threatened constantly by seeping moisture.

The telephone company's moisture problem already is partly solved through a system of pressurization used in the Fox Cities, among the first areas in the nation to employ the equipment to reduce the number of service outages caused by rainstorms or excessive moisture.

With some 500 miles of cable to maintain for continuous uninterrupted telephone service in the Fox Cities area, the Appleton division of the Wisconsin Telephone company is pumping dry nitrogen gas inside its lead cable sheaths to prevent moisture from entering through holes and cracks. This plan was explained by George Leary, plant chief for the local office of Wisconsin Telephone.

A postcard with the youngster's return address is put in each balloon to be returned by the person who finds the balloon. The 1957 race was won by Anthony Goehler, whose card was returned from Wilmington, Del., top distance record so far.

eral months ago, about 40 per cent of the cable plant now is impervious to moisture troubles, Leary relates. After this summer's maintenance work is completed, the company feels that about 80 per cent will be protected.

Some of the smaller cables will require work in 1960 and probably on into 1961, Leary reports, but after that it will be merely a matter of locating an occasional leak that may develop and cause a loss of gas pressure.

Moisture is a problem for plant personnel concerned with the 500 "sheath miles" of cable served by the Appleton office. Of various sizes, these include the service lines numbering anywhere from 16 pairs (32 individual wires) to 2,121 pairs (4,242 wires.)

Overhead Wires

The greatest length of the cables is located overhead but the cables are buried underground for about the first mile of their distance from the telephone plant building. The latter type is confronted with ground moisture, while the aerial cables can be affected by rain, fog, or even by high humidity.

The culprit, moisture, causes the trouble by soaking the paper insulation on wires inside the lead sheath. The wires then can short out or be crossed, causing service interruptions.

The cracks through which moisture enters the lead of the sheath encasing the copper wires result from contraction and expansion during periods of sudden temperature changes. The problem has been widespread for many years and, despite improvements in design, installation and maintenance, no entirely reliable and economical solution was found until now.

Gas Leaks Out

Many years ago it was found that dry compressed air, forced into the cable and maintained at about six to nine pounds pressure per square inch leaked out of the holes and prevented moisture from entering. After a period of experimentation, a method of maintaining some of the more important cables under nitrogen pressure was developed. It consisted primarily of first conditioning the cable so that it was leakproof and then filling it with gas at a specified pressure. Thereafter any leaks had to be plugged in order to ensure a constant pressure. When the pressure dropped substantially, it was necessary to haul heavy gas-filled tanks to the location and refill the cable.

This method was considered effective except that it was costly and had limitations. Some cheaper method had to be found to keep moisture from the telephone wires.

Dryer Developed

A few years ago a machine called a dryer was developed which would inhale air containing nitrogen, remove all moisture from it, and pump it constantly into telephone cables. The machine was moderately priced, the air was free and the cables were waiting to be placed under pressure.

Enthusiasm mounted and a trial installation was made in one area of Milwaukee and in Madison. Many things were learned from these two pilot projects, and many additional economical methods of reducing the leakage of gas along the cable routes were found. These included plugging terminal points where pressure

Murrow Applies For Commission In Naval Reserve

New York —(AP)— Television commentator Edward R. Murrow has applied for a commission in the U.S. Naval reserve.

The Navy said that Murrow applied to serve in the public information field. It was reported that if the commission is granted Murrow would have the rank of commander. Murrow, 51, said he has no radio or television programs in mind now that are related to the Navy. He is on a year's leave of absence from the Columbia Broadcasting system, although he plans to do two TV documentaries next year and continue to appear on the "Small World" program.

Same Process

Murrow, who had a physical examination after he applied for a commission, said the Navy told him he was going through the same process that any one else would encounter in seeking a commission. He once held a commission in the army reserve. Murrow did a TV documentary on the Navy about two years ago, and he has numerous Navy officers as friends. There was a report that he believes there are certain Navy stories that can be covered only by Navy personnel.

Farm Bill Ends Up as Item for Fall Legislature

Nelson's Bill Hits Senate Snag When Pushed in Session

Madison —A market order proposal — pushed late in the session as Gov. Gaylord Nelson's major farm bill—ended up as an item of business for the fall term when the legislature recessed Saturday.

The governor's farm aide, Robert Lewis, described the measure as a self-help plan to enable farmers to work out their own programs for specified commodities. The bill breezed through the assembly, then hit heavy Republican opposition in the senate.

Upset when he learned the bill had become embroiled in controversy, Nelson accused its opponents of distortion and misrepresentation. Senate Republicans said the bill would put the state in the grain storage business and lead to price fixing. A few called it a step toward socialized agriculture.

Another of Nelson's proposals got far better treatment from the legislature. It places stiff controls on the sale of dairy calves to out-of-state buyers. Supporters described the measure as an attempt to control activities of "unscrupulous dealers" who misrepresent the background of the dairy stock they purchase. There was little argument

State Gets Control Of Upper Fox River

Bill Is One of '59 Legislature's Most Important Outdoor Moves

Madison —The state's new motorboat registration assumed control of the 97-mile and regulation laws, begun upper Fox River waterway in March 31. Included is a one of the 1959 legislature's $3 fee for three years. The most important acts affecting regulations require motor boats to have running lights outdoors.

The lawmakers also agreed at night, safety equipment proved a $27,333,000 conservation and mufflers.

The last of the controversial plan and a $757,000 at bounty bills was lost in the state-county lake access as shuffle of adjournment. It quition program. A $2 park would have boosted hunting sticker plan, pushed hard the license fees slightly to under-past week, was laid over un-write the cost of paying state ul the fall session bounties, estimated at $249,000 for the biennium.

Federal Aid No Bounties
As part of the waterway bargain, the federal government agreed to put the area bounties — discontinued in in repair at a cost of about 1957 — on fox, coyote and $300,000. wildcat.

Gov. Nelson's proposal to abolish and reorganize the is a plan for development of conservation commission was public access on lakes and killed in a party-line vote by streams. In order to be effective, the Republican controlled senate, the $337,000 put up by the state will have to be matched with county funds.

Under the bill, Nelson would have been able to name six Trout fishermen made an new commissioners. Under important gain in a compromise present law he is entitled to mise bill making water from name two to posts which be-lakes and streams available come officially vacant next for agricultural irrigation week.

Fishermen will be subject

Bill Amended Approved by Senate

Madison —A senate amendment to Gov. Gaylord Nelson's major piece of bill-board legislation was approved by the assembly Saturday, clearing the way for sending the measure to the governor's desk.

The controversial proposal would ban billboards on the 453-mile interstate highway system, making the state eligible for an additional million dollar in federal highway aids. The senate earlier had agreed to back down on two additional amendments, termed "crippling" by the governor.

Governor Plans Change in State Road Program

Nelson Hopes to Speed Construction On Highway System

Madison —Gov. Nelson plans to make some changes in the highway plan during the fall session in an effort to speed up work on main north-south highways. The budget is financed mainly from federal aids, motor fuel taxes, and vehicle registration fees.

An additional million dollars in federal aid is forthcoming due to passage of a bill to ban billboards on the state's 453-mile interstate system. Nelson asked for two billboard measures, got one after fighting with the senate. The other would have provided for billboard regulation on the 11,500-mile trunk highway system.

Truck Weights
A bill boosting the maximum weight for trucks using more. The system, adopted the state's highways was two years ago, has been used exclusively by deer hunters. goes from 68,000 to 73,200

Resource Department

The other streamlining bill will put the state's planning and promotional activities under a new department of resource development. The state planning and industrial development divisions are made a part of the new agency.

A package of mental health bills, drafted by an interim committee, was passed. One bill gives legislative approval to construction of a treatment center for emotionally disturbed children. The measure does not carry an appropriation. It has been estimated the institution will cost about one half million dollars.

The other measures would establish a state mental health advisory committee jury on the job. and provide $400,000 in aid during the biennium for encouragement of local community mental health clinics.

Block Vote

Assembly Democrats, who controlled the house 55-45, usually voted as a block on labor-sponsored legislation.

The Catlin law repealer sailed through the assembly over token GOP resistance. In its only senate roll call, the 13 Democrats were joined by GOP mavericks Chester Dempsey of Harland, Allen Busby of Milwaukee and Earl Leverich of Sparta.

The bill boosting top jobless benefits to $41 a week for a maximum of 34 weeks went into effect July 19, when temporary benefits enacted in last summer's special session expired.

A law extending jobless benefits to logging industry workmen goes into effect Jan. 1.

Another Bill
A bill requiring local governmental bodies to recognize municipal and county employee unions as bargaining agents was passed. Alleged violations of the proposed act would be appealed to circuit court.

The senate blocked a bill proposing substantial revisions in the Employment Peace act. It would have eliminated the state - supervised referendum now necessary before a union shop contract can go into effect.

Proposals Killed
Other labor-management legislation that didn't make the grade would have:

- Required employers to pay women the same wages as men if they did equal work.
- Required employers to pay for chiropractic treatment of employees covered by workmen's compensation and unemployment insurance.
- Excluded unemployment compensation from gross income for state income tax purposes.

Ike Should Make Berlin Stand Clear to Reds

War Chances Reduced if Russia Knows He Will Fight Rather Than Surrender

BY JOSEPH ALSOP
Washington — A story about Dwight D. Eisenhower, that is highly relevant at the moment, is told at the state department. It concerns a meeting between the president and the ambassador to Germany, David K. E. Bruce.

In that stage Alsop of the Berlin crisis, Bruce had come home for policy talks. He was not quite sure what the basic American policy really was.

Bruce was not content to let the matter rest, when the president offered assurances like his statement that he "would not give an inch" at Berlin. He reminded his chief that there was only one way to defend the vulnerable Berlin position—by being willing to fight a nuclear war for Berlin.

War or Surrender?
Bruce added that there would be no war, if the president made his resolution plain to the Kremlin. But he pointed out that many means were available to the Kremlin, for detecting any hesitation in the president's resolution. He concluded the essence of the problem was whether the president preferred the risk of a big war to a surrender.

The president said he understood the choice and had reflected on it prayerfully. Quite aside from America's moral obligation to 2½ million Berliners, he went on, he had decided that a surrender at Berlin would be disastrous, because it only would prepare the demand for another surrender somewhere else. Therefore, the president said grimly, he would fight a nuclear war for Berlin.

That was long ago. But the president's reported statement to Bruce last week, about the sleepless nights he experienced because of the thought of using nuclear weapons. One must assume that the president's intention is exactly what he says it is—not to give an inch and to fight rather than surrender. As the president relies heavily on his staff officers, these men, and chiefly Sec. of State Christian A. Herter, will define the phrase "not give an inch." Their definition easily could turn out to be a concealed surrender. But Herter is just as firm as John Foster Dulles ever was.

In these circumstances, it is bewildering that almost nothing has been done to give expression to the president's resolution. With little plain speaking about the choice, President Eisenhower could rally the country behind him. By so doing, he would strengthen Sec. Herter's hand immeasurably.

Instead, while making his statement for the record, the president has allowed the country to fall into a state of complacency about Berlin. Therefore Khrushchev says that the workers of America will not support the President's policy.

Quiet Precautions
In the military sphere, the president has been persuaded by Sec. Herter to order "quiet precautions easily noticeable by the Soviet intelligence." But he has steadfastly refused to order the measures that would convince the Kremlin he means business.

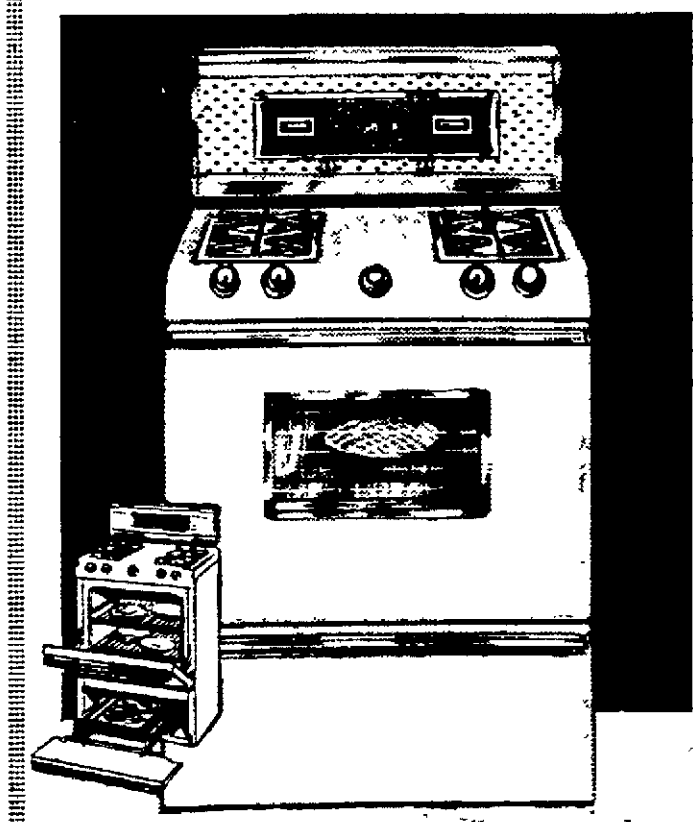

It is plain from the way Khrushchev has been speaking that he does not think the president means business. That can needlessly lead on to a world tragedy. If the president truly means business, it is his duty to show it in the most decisive way.

Why has he not done so? First of all, when the foregoing arguments have been outlined to him, he has always replied that everyone knows what his policy is, because he has explained it at press conference after press conference. It never occurred to Eisenhower, apparently, that the Kremlin is impressed by acts, and never by words.

There is the pull of the curious Eisenhower political technique, described by Arthur Schlesinger, Jr.—"whenever clear-cut issues threaten to burst into flame, he douses them with torrents of platitudes and piety." The description may be cruel, but the technique is real, and it has been pretty effective so far in American domestic policies. The trouble is that it has now become a very dangerous technique indeed. (Copyright 1959)

Bipartisan Legislation in Wisconsin

The people of Wisconsin and particularly the leaders of the Democratic party are indebted to the Republicans in the state senate for preventing some very questionable legislation during the present term.

When Gov. Nelson was campaigning for office he made a big point of his interest in promoting the industrial growth of Wisconsin. Nevertheless, since the election, many of the Democratic legislators have been busy trying to develop votes in every possible manner with no regard whatever for the promises of the party leader.

There are many factors involved in building a favorable state climate for industry. No doubt an important part of it is connected with favorable publicity. In spite of this, the Democrats made it a part of their platform to favor legislation which would reopen the state income and gift tax returns to public inspection. The senate Republicans arguing that the proposed bill would bring about a breach of privacy and put business firms at a competitive disadvantage with those in other states where income tax returns are kept secret, finally succeeded in killing that bill.

A little later the same Republican senators succeeded in killing a bill which would have altered the 20-year-old Wisconsin Labor Peace act. The bill proposed to eliminate the requirement that after a union and management have agreed to a union shop, the question of a union shop still must be submitted to a referendum of the company's employees. The present law requires approval by a two-thirds majority in a secret ballot.

The Republican senators, Trinke of Lake Geneva and Hendee of Milwaukee, led the opposition to this change. They argued that the existing act had worked well for 20 years and that the present labor climate in Wisconsin is good. They went on to point out that the repeal by the legislature earlier of the Catlin act which prevented political contributions by labor unions joined with the change proposed by the amendment to the Labor Peace act would be a very great obstacle to the efforts being made to attract industry to Wisconsin.

We think Sen. Hendee made a very good point when he said, "The real issue of this bill is the right of the minority to express themselves in a secret ballot, which this bill would deny them."

Also, we think Trinke was pointing out a very important matter when he mentioned the Catlin bill. Since the ban on political contributions by labor organizations was removed by the repeal of the Catlin bill, the minorities in unions are without any voice whatsoever as to how the union money shall be spent. One way to give them voice is by the secret ballot requiring a two-thirds majority to establish a union shop as is provided by the Wisconsin Labor Peace act. So far that has been satisfactory.

However, if that should be repealed, it is only natural, and we think quite certain, that there would be a strong movement for right to work legislation in Wisconsin. So far the right to work advocates have had little success in Wisconsin and that was probably due to the fact of the Catlin bill and the secret ballots in the peace act. Here again we think the people of Wisconsin and the leaders of the Democratic party were very fortunate to have the help of the Senate Republicans in staying off this unwise legislation.

D. N. Means Darned Nonsense

An organization called the American Registry of Doctor's Nurses has attempted to find membership among women working in doctors' offices in Wisconsin. According to the rules of the group, members are entitled to wear an official D. N. cap, the official pin in the form of the medical caduceus with the initials D. N. superimposed upon it, to use an official automobile emblem, the use of the letters, D. N., after one's name and something simply referred to as "professional standing." Fortunately Wisconsin laws were drawn to outlaw such maneuvers to get around nursing regulations, and Atty. Gen. John Reynolds has ruled that use of the symbols by anyone not a registered nurse violates the statutes.

State laws have specific requirements for the licensing of registered nurses and trained practical nurses. Section four of the pertinent statute states that "no person shall practise or attempt to practise professional nursing, nor use the title, letters or anything else to indicate that she is a registered or professional nurse unless she is registered in this section. No person not so registered shall use in connection with her nursing employment or vocation any title or anything else to indicate that she is a trained, certified or graduate nurse."

The qualifications for membership in the American Registry of Doctor's Nurses are appallingly misleading. Persons employed in a doctor's office in any capacity need only check ten procedures on a list with which they are familiar. The list

Protecting Drivers from Themselves

Another example of governmental paternalism has been placed on the Wisconsin statute books with Gov. Nelson's signing of a bill prohibiting gimmicks from being hung on windshields of automobiles to obstruct the driver's view.

The need for such a law is a sad commentary on the intelligence of so-called adults who appear unable to drive a car unless it resembles a baby's crib festooned with pacifiers.

Most of the offensive gimmicks have had the good purpose of reminding the driver not to gamble with his and his passengers' lives (the fluffy dice) and to help him keep his responsibilities in mind (the baby shoes).

So You Think You Have Trouble Paying Bills

From The Wall Street Journal

If a neighbor of yours, in addition to the long-term mortgage on his home, was also in hock for more than a whole year's salary to a couple of banks, the grocery and sundry friends — well, you'd hardly be surprised that he looked harassed.

A man caught in that position is really on a treadmill. His pay check is obligated before he gets it, and he has to go around putting the touch on one friend just to pay off another.

When the word gets around about his improvident management he's going to find it harder and harder to get people to lend him more money.

That's just about the situation the U. S. Government finds itself in. Uncle Sam's income in the fiscal year that just closed amounted to $68.2 billion, hardly a pecunious paycheck. Yet in spite of its high income, the Government has a debt of some $265 billion. And, pity the poor manager at the Treasury. $24.5 billion of this is short-term debt, falling due within less than a year.

So the whole of the Treasury's income for a year is $16 billion short of covering even the debts the Treasury has coming due in a year, to say nothing of the rest. Like the improvident householder the Treasury must put the touch on lenders, as often as several times a month, merely to pay off others. Not surprisingly, the Treasury is finding this harder and harder to do — and more costly.

And if that weren't harassing enough for Sec. Anderson, he's urged by some Congressmen to juggle the debt faster and faster while they speed up the treadmill with more spending. We only hope your neighbor on his treadmill doesn't heed this advice from Washington.

Doctor Wants Drivers to Wear Hats for Safety

From The Winnipeg Free Press

Motorists should wear hats, according to an English doctor. The doctor is not so much concerned about fashion or the effect of the sun.

His point is simply that, in the event of an accident, a battered head is less likely to get mashed in than a bare one. Should head and windshield come into sudden and violent contact, a hat in between would absorb a good deal of the blow.

The cap that the doctor himself wears when he is driving can absorb 60 per cent of a 4,000-pound impact.

son, he's urged by some Congressmen to juggle the debt faster and faster while they speed up the treadmill with more spending. We only hope your neighbor on his treadmill doesn't heed this advice from Washington.

From The Wall Street Journal
Of July 22, 1959

... But one of the striking things about American politics also is that it has never for long tolerated all-or-nothing propositions dictated by any pressure group, or by any ambitious demagogues. Sometimes we as a people are slow to arouse; perhaps too slow. But in time the people have cut down to size all manner of overweening men, from the business tycoons of the last century to the rabble-rousers of this one. There was a time — remember? — when some people feared the Gerald L. K. Smiths and the Senator McCarthys were going to destroy the country. . . .

Mr. William F. Kerby, Vice President and Editorial Director, Wall Street Journal, 711 West Monroe, Chicago, Ill., Dear Mr. Kerby:

May I refer you to the editorial of Wednesday, July 22nd, under the heading "The Virtue of Mr. Hoffa."

We are, of course, in complete agreement in all that you and others may say about Mr. Hoffa but I think it most unwise and unkind, and almost untruthful, when your editorial places Gerald L. K. Smith and the late Senator McCarthy in the same category.

We have read a lot of smear about the late Senator McCarthy and, of course, Richard Rovere has had his say.

'Happy Medium' Pill Could be Next on Market

From The Atlanta Constitution

Some day the drug manufacturers are going to outdo themselves.

First came the tranquilizers, or happiness pills.

Now come the energizers, or get-up-and-be-about-your-business pills, used for treating the mentally depressed.

If this keeps up, soon the druggists will have to put on the market a happy medium pill, for those who need neither the tranquilizers nor the energizers but would like to take some sort of socially acceptable pill to keep from feeling left out.

As for energizers, whatever happened to elbow grease?

Potomac Fever — by Fletcher Knebel

Vice President Nixon flies to Moscow. Republicans spend half their life running against communists—and half running after them.

Living costs set a new record high. Prices are more hardy than our statesman. They got to the summit months ago.

Lyndon Johnson demands that Ike end the steel strike. Democrats are peeved. Ike is so wary of using his power, they never get to call him a despot.

The passport office says more housewives travel abroad than teachers, students and businessmen. Natch. They're the wives of the teachers, students and businessmen.

Ike dines Washington newsmen. With Nixon in Moscow and Secretary Herter in Geneva, the whole Eisenhower team is deep in negotiations with the enemy.

As one tired archeologist said to the other, this earth has an awful lot of crust.

Former Republican Leader Joe Martin is writing a book. Postmaster General Summerfield is relieved. That's one book he won't have to worry about people reading behind his back.

Withholding Tax Bill Never Had a Chance

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — The death of the Democratic administration's withholding tax proposal was generally treated as the most important legislative news story of the session thus far.

But it was actually anti-climatic. It had been known for three months that the bill had no chance of passage. Indeed, in retrospect there is a temptation to say that it never had a chance and that the political strategists of the Democratic party miscalculated badly when they assumed that there would be enough popular response to the idea to persuade a Republican senate to enact it into law.

While the passivity of the taxpaying public which had been assumed to be anxious for this "reform" was the basic reason for the failure of Gov. Nelson's key bill of the session, there were many auxiliary factors.

One was the insistence of the administration spokesmen throughout the argument to defend the change as an improved "method" of collecting taxes, when it was transparent during every moment that the real motive was the "windfall" yield of revenues that would result.

President Nation's Top Paper Reader

From The Minot, N. D., Daily News

President Eisenhower scans 10 newspapers daily, making him the nation's No. 1 newspaper reader. He goes through the morning editions at breakfast and takes a quick look at the evening papers in his office before reading them at night.

Fifty feet from his office, two teletype machines bring in the news from the two American press associations. His press secretary keeps the president informed of major stories as they break. Every morning, the president also studies confidential reports and international news digests prepared for him by the state and defense departments and the central intelligence agency.

News magazines, radio and television reports supplement this reading.

It is essential for the president to keep completely informed on developments the world over to do his job properly. He sets an example for the well informed citizen.

Spiders Hear With Legs, Researchers At Cornell Discover

Ithaca, N. Y. — Spiders hear with their legs, Cornell university researcher Charles Walcott reports.

While studying the effects of drugs on spiders' reactions, Walcott discovered that the number of nerve impulses in a spider's leg increased when Cornell's chimes rang.

The end of a spider's leg acts as an eardrum, Walcott determined. Each leg has about 10 small slits tuned to different sound frequencies.

Compromise on School Issue

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of July 31, 1880.

Something in the nature of a compromise has been proposed, to-wit: to adopt the proposition to authorize the board of education (School District No. 2) to purchase real estate for the site of a school house, and to levy $1,000 toward the payment thereof and do nothing this year relative to building.

It would seem to the ordinary observer that it is of the highest importance to secure a site in the Second Ward without delay, because the best site with the amount of expenditure can be obtained now. A delay, even for a single year, might cost the people $1,000 or $2,000 extra, and possibly prevent the procurement of a site in all respects suitable for school purposes.

The Crescent hopes that all who are favorable to our public schools will take care to attend the meeting at Hercules school house, on Monday evening next at 7:30 p.m. and vote the authority to make the purchase.

Claims Need For Controller

Taxpayers' Unit
Calls on Council
To Study Proposal

Decisions about the duties and qualifications of a budget expert for the city should be made by the city council, the Appleton Taxpayers association said in a letter to Ald. Harold Hannemann, chairman of the welfare and ordinance committee.

The association told a common council committee of the whole recently the city could save money if it adopted a more tightly-controlled expenditure system and reporting routine. It recommended hiring a full-time controller to do these tasks.

The association said it had no authority to recommend the actual duties of a controller and to whom he should report. That choice should be left to the council, the letter stated.

Bookkeeper Possible
"The council might wish to consider first determining what is to be done and then creating a position to do that job. For example, if the need is for more assistance for the city clerk, this might be accomplished with a bookkeeper," the association stated.

The group, however, said a controller probably would be necessary for all accounting, budgeting, budget analysis and establishing financial controls.

It added that the Appleton Certified Public Accountants association would be willing to serve free of charge in an advisory capacity.

Railway Crews Opening New Industry Area

Rail Removal Work Completed, City to Construct New Road

Kaukauna — Crews of the Chicago and North Western Railway company have been working last week removing rails and ties from near the southside switching yards adjacent to Main avenue to open up area for industrial purposes.

The city assumed the cost of having rails removed by the 10-man crew to provide area for industrial expansion. It is expected the removal work will cost about $4,500 and money was appropriated from an excess received in state income tax returns, over and above the estimate of the budget.

Removal work has been completed but leveling and clearing work is still to be done. The city plans to put in a roadway adjacent to the power canal to provide access to the industrial property which is owned by the railway.

Members of the industrial development committee of the Chamber of Commerce have been working on a program to attract a small industry into the city in the new area or other areas where zoning permits.

It is felt the newest area will be best suited for industrial expansion as it is centrally located, is adjacent to a highway for trucking purposes and is provided with switching area for trains as well as serviced by rail.

Fun Day Set at Swimming Pool

Kaukauna — Fun day will be held at the Memorial swimming pool starting at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday with all pool personnel to be on hand to help supervise activities.

Teams will be selected from the north and south sides of Kaukauna to compete in such games as tug-of-war, retrieving a greased watermelon, water basketball, a relay in-tube race and others. A pin-diving contest for prizes will be held on an individual basis.

All local children will be admitted free while those from outside the city will pay a slight admission fee.

Early Morning Fire Causes Heavy Damage

Kaukauna—Extensive damage resulted to a clothes closet and kitchen of an apartment occupied by Miss Marie Akeman, 600 Qinnex avenue, about 3 a. m. Saturday when fire destroyed clothing in the closet and blistered and charred walls in the kitchen, according to William Haupt, fire chief.

Miss Akeman told Haupt she awoke about 2 p. m. to get a heating pad from the closet and returned to bed, about an hour later she smelled smoke, saw the fire and called firemen. Haupt said the fire started in the closet where a light was left on and started clothing on fire.

Smoke damage was reported to the upstairs apartment. Firemen used about 500 gallons of water and were at the scene for one and one-half hours.

Q. My wife and I both work on jobs covered by social security and both earn the maximum. What benefits will we receive when we reach 65 this fall?

A. Since you both earn maximum wages, you can both be eligible to $116 a month, the maximum payment at present under the law.

Q. I started drawing social security benefits at age 72 but I am still working. My salary was raised $10 a month Jan. 1, 1959. Can I get a raise in my social security benefits because of my higher salary?

A. Probably not. Your $10 increase in salary would probably not be enough to raise your overall average earnings sufficiently for a higher social security benefit. If you wish to take all the facts to your social security district office then we'll be able to explain about your individual case.

Q. Is there any increase in widow's benefits at age 75 under the new law?

A. No. Benefits are not increased because of age, but are based on the average earnings of the worker.

The social security administration office is in the courthouse annex, 401 S. Elm street, Appleton.

Young Hobby Club Sand Pictures Fun to Make With Glue, Heavy Cardboard

BY CAPPY DICK

Sand pictures are fun to make. Here's how to do it.

On a piece of thin wood or heavy cardboard trace a picture out of your drawing book. It should be a simple one with just a few well-outlined objects in it. The sailboat scene in Figure 3 is an example.

Figure 1 shows the equipment needed. Decide how many different colors you will need in the picture. Then fill some small dishes with the whitest sand you can get and color each dish a different color. You can do this by stirring water colors, poster paints or inks of various colors into the sand. Still another way is to empty the sand from each dish, rub it with chalk of the proper color, then pour the sand back into the dish.

You will now need some thin glue or shellac. Dip an old paint brush into the glue and spread it on all parts of the picture that are to be of a certain color—red, for example. Then, as the boy is doing in Figure 2, sprinkle the red sand over the areas where the glue has been spread. The sand must be sprinkled as evenly as possible. Shake it around to be sure that all the glued parts will be covered. Particles of the red sand will stick to the glue.

When the red areas have dried, apply to all parts of the picture that are to be of another color, such as green. Sprinkle green sand over

Reds Discredited U. S. Wins 'Battle of Iceland, Pro-American Forces in Power

BY THOMAS A. REEDY

Reykjavik, Iceland, — The United States appears to have won "The Battle of Iceland," nearly lost three years ago to nationalists teamed with communists.

In 1956 the theme was "Ami, Go Home," the pet communist cry.

In 1959, the coin has been turned completely over. The communists have been repudiated. Pro-American forces are riding high and the Icelanders has concluded his destiny lies with the United States.

Base Service

Talk of closing out the NATO early warning base at Keflavik has halted completely.

Criticism of the Americans is confined to the red camp. Inside the communist circles the diehards put up a brave front but conceded they have been set back so far there is no telling how far the disintegration will go.

A survey among Icelanders in a position to know indicates a feeling that the once attractive appeal of the communists — Iceland for the Icelanders — has been exposed as a fraud.

Hungary shocked the Icelanders. He knows something about aggression since his ancestors fled it a thousand years ago in Viking ships and then were subjected to foreign rule all the way up to 1943.

Red China's conduct in Tibet furnished the nail for the communist coffin.

This is the opinion of Prime Minister Emil Jonsson, and also of opposition leaders.

Citizen's Agree

The man on the streets of this tiny nation (160,000) will tell you the same. The Viking came here to escape oppression in Norway and Denmark. He became fairly safe from it to the point where he believed "It can't happen here." Now, he believes it can happen without the backing of Uncle Sam.

U. S. forces will spend $6 million at the airbase on housing and communications this year, using Icelandic labor, technicians and supplies.

Icelanders are proud of the political development but also are canny about it too. As one high government official put it: "We are showing our true colors and we would hope first, which netted $15,951,745, that the Americans then will have the confidence necessary to back us up where we need earnings declined 16 per cent most, supports leading to the kind of trade that can spite an 8 per cent rise in make us self-sufficient."

Sutherland Paper company earnings in the second quarter of 1959 bettered profits for the same 1958 period, E. Wendell Smith, president, says.

Last year the company netted $582,179 or 54 cents a share in the second quarter.

West Europe
Worries Over
Verbal Clash

Telegraph said the Nixon-Khrushchev tussle "raises fresh doubts whether a high-level visit does not sometimes do more harm than good."

"With all the good will in the world it is difficult to avoid feeling the western statesmen cannot go on providing occasions for the Soviet prime minister to demonstrate to the Russian audience and to interested observers in Asia their willingness to be badgered."

Around the coffee houses and wine bars in neutral Austria, the sharp debate was looked upon as "somewhat undignified."

Vienna's independent Kronen Zeitung commented that the two statesmen "went at each other like wrestlers performing at the haymarket in a catch-as-catch can on the diplomatic mat."

Rome's big independent Il Tempo said the exchange "at first provokes laughter. But it can only disturb one."

Khrushchev insulted his guests, insulted Americans and westerners, and lost his temper . . . It has been some time since Khrushchev has spoken like a madman. But he never reached such heights of madness and rudeness," Il Tempo said.

Scandinavian and German newspapers reported the squabble without comment. Paris' Le Monde called it an "oratorical joust of brutal cordiality."

Banner headlines also accompanied accounts of the Nixon-Khrushchev debate in Asia, but no newspaper indicated its choice for the winner of the verbal duel.

Japan's mammoth newspapers Asahi and Mainichi were pleased by the unrestrained exchange.

Mainichi said such a debate might be "one key in solving the cold war . . . We pray that it be so. At least it seems better than the exchange of exaggerated documents of denunciations."

many problems that we have between our two countries."

"I can say that we had some difference with Chairman Khrushchev at the points at issue. I would say it was not a case of his convincing me or me convincing him."

Nixon went on to tell the crowd, made up mostly of young men and women, and with some sailors in uniform.

"The differences between nations in today's world must be settled at the conference table and not on the battlefield. My message to the people of Leningrad, to the American people is this—peace."

Nixon used the Russian word for peace.

Most of the crowd remained silent, perhaps because they could not hear the vice president.

The Nixons paid an overnight visit to the Khrushchevs big cream-colored country home, or dacha, in a wooded park about 20 miles outside Moscow. Nixon returned to the U.S. embassy residence last night and drafted a detailed report on the conversation for President Eisenhower and Sec. of State Christian A. Herter.

Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's press aide, hinted that the talk did little to solve any of the major differences dividing the United States and Soviet Russia.

"There naturally were major differences of opinion," he said, "but the discussions at all times were calm."

The meeting, sixth between Khrushchev and Nixon since the vice president arrived last Thursday, may be their last. Klein said, however, a farewell meeting was not ruled out when Nixon returns from a 5-day visit to Leningrad and Siberia.

The two leaders talked during a long Sunday dinner on a grassy tree-shaded knoll overlooking the Moscow river.

First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan and Frol R. Kozlov and their wives, and U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson and President Eisenhower's brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, also were at the table. Aides said they sat silently by as the vice president and the premier did the talking.

Mr. and Mrs. Khrushchev did not arrive at the dacha until shortly afternoon. A U. S. reporter and photographer and a Soviet reporter were admitted to report the preliminaries.

The two leaders agreed that their rough and tumble debate at the American Exposition Friday had not offended either.

The exchange, they said, was hard hitting and frank—but not belligerent. Turning to Nixon, Khrushchev asked, "Were you offended?"

"Never," replied Nixon. "Mr. Khrushchev and I have some real and honest differences but we are alike in this respect: we both came from humble families and both have a practice of speaking directly and not beating around the bush."

"I agree," Khrushchev said. Before lunch Khrushchev and Nixon went for a motorboat ride on the river, stopping eight times to shake hands and talk with bathers.

"Captive people?" Khrushchev would say in a reference to the U. S. proclamation of a special week of prayer for those in communist countries.

"No, No. Peace and friendship," was the swimmers' standard reply. "Peace and friendship (mir druzba)," the vice president would echo in Russian.

At the last stop Nixon turned to the premier and said, "You know, Mr. Khrushchev, I must admire you. This is the eighth time you've stopped. You never miss a chance to make propaganda."

"No, no. I don't make propaganda," Khrushchev said. "I tell the truth."

Standing on the grassy knoll in front of his dacha, Khrushchev pointed to the restful surroundings and said, "We should have a summit conference here, instead of sitting in Geneva many months eating so many pies."

At the conclusion of the visit, Nixon presented Khrushchev with a basketful of U. S. corn products ranging from candy to cornob pipes and a transoceanic radio.

At a U. S. embassy dinner Saturday night Nixon and Khrushchev talked of peace and hailed President Eisenhower.

Toasting the president's health, Khrushchev told Nixon: "We like his sincerity, his gentleness, which is quite up to the mark."

"Mr. Khrushchev and Mr. Eisenhower are alike in that they are men who had humble beginnings and came to the top," Nixon replied in his own toast to the absent Soviet president, Klement Voroshilov.

sharp departure from tradition or a conflict of philosophy with the watchful Republicans.

Loses On Withholding
Thus his most important loss—by his own definition—was the income tax withholding bill.

He also had little chance to establish the bold farm marketing program he asked, with its plan for production, marketing, price and surplus controls, or to amend the state trade laws in a way that brought stern objections from most of the business community.

As to the number of bills passed, he is probably correct, but he lost more big proposals than he won. In nearly every instance when he asked for striking departures from traditional policy and especially touching economic and tax questions, the Republican senators defeated them.

The session record, however, has less importance in political or campaign terms than in other years because the seven months of legislative deliberations amounted only to a first round in the relations between governor and executive.

Most of it will be erased or modified drastically in the fall when the major decisions on state budgeting and state taxation will be made.

Long Fall Session
Unless the governor can come up with a tax and fiscal program that is more palatable than he offered earlier this year, the fall session will be prolonged and difficult.

Meanwhile both political parties regard the 7-month record was reasonably satisfactory to them. Republicans managed to hold down tax increases to a point that which the governor had consistently demanded. Nelson on the other hand won more, such as a building program, than most observers had believed was possible.

While they can point to a first year budget that is technically in "balance," it violates some of the rules of operations in budget making. It promises to draw down surplus funds to the zero point. Normally that would be impracticable, but with the legislature returning in the fall to complete the budget arrangements the issue is of no immediate consequence.

Second Year Tougher
The second year budget will be far more difficult to balance. The governor has already conceded that it will be substantially higher, although he says he is prepared to bomb it intensively for ways to save money.

When the Democrats scored their victory in the elections last fall, it was generally believed that their labor organization allies would de-toast to the absent Soviet president, Klement Voroshilov.

Club Decorations

As the orchestra played "Getting to Know You," "The Way You Look Tonight" and "A Pretty Girl is Like a Melody," each girl and her father individually circled the club's ballroom. Trees of white flowers decorated the room for the gala occasion and bouquets of red and white carnations complemented the lacy fans trimmed with red flowers which the girls carried.

After the presentation there was dancing until 1 a.m. and the young women and their escorts attended a post-ball party at the French residence. Before the dinner Mr. and Mrs. Catlin entertained the young people at a "cocktail" party at their home.

The traditional "rush dance" was carried out Saturday evening. The presentees had the first dance with their fathers and then their escorts cut in to begin the rush dance. This year's group brings the total of young women introduced to club membership to 121.

Readers Defend Martha, Who Cared Long for Aged Mother

BY ANN LANDERS
From Chicago. DEAR ANN: I never wrote to a paper in my life but I must write now. I was stunned by the letter from the family who complained because their sister Martha wanted a vacation after nursing her aged mother for years. Ann Landers called her a "sick manneverer" because she agreed to quit teaching if they would pay her the same salary. The mother did them a dirty trick. She died in June. This meant Martha had three months before she could return to teaching. She said she needed a rest and wanted to take a trip. They thought she should go to work in a store until school reopened! I was so happy when you told the pack of ingrates off. I actually got out of my chair and cheered. My own dear wife took care of my mother for 14 years while my sisters did nothing but send the old lady a plant on Mother's day. Thanks, Ann, from the bottom of my heart.—The Witness

From Atlanta. Dear Ann: My heart ached for Martha who cared for her aged mother for years.

I was in the same boat for seven years. My great aunt was practically dumped on my doorstep by my mother. "You're the only in the family who has a spare room," she said. I took the poor woman in and it almost wrecked my health.

Thanks for understanding the problem and saying a good word for those of us who have gone through the experience.—Ardis

From Louisville. DEAR ANN: Your reply to Martha's family was a gem. If I were a member of congress I would have entered it in the congressional record.—A.M.S.

From Battle Creek, Mich. DEAR ANN: Your column today brought back nightmarish memories. I cared for a senile father for 11 years. He wouldn't use the bathroom facilities. He set fire to the mattress three times when he fell asleep with a cigar in his hand. Frequently he wandered out in his nightshirt and bare feet and we'd have to comb the neighborhood to find him.

When I suggested my sister-in-law take him for a few weeks to give me a rest she refused. Thanks for being on the side of those of us who have been through this ordeal.—C.B.B.

From Birmingham, Ala. DEAR ANN: I was stuck with the complete care of my 88-year-old grandmother. When my mother passed away she made me promise on her death bed that I would take care of her. I never put her in a nursing home. Well, she was safe because no nursing home would have her. Grandma belonged in a mental institution.

I was a newly-wed then and my husband was an angel to put up with it. It was like a breath of fresh air to read your reply, Ann. God bless you.—Mrs. O.R.

From St. Louis. DEAR ANN: My mother-in-law is 91. It wasn't hard for me to put myself in that school teacher's shoes. For the last 18 years Mama has been "dying" every week. She has a pension and an inheritance, but refuses to spend a cent as she is saving it "for her old age."

In the meantime my husband had to mortgage the house to pay for her hip operation two years ago. She is the devil's very own sister, and I wouldn't be surprised if she outlived me.—Bert

DEAR ANN: Settle this bet, please. Did you ever take care of an aged relative? The way you answered that letter I say yes.—Charley

Dear Charley: No—but my own wonderful mother cared for her aged father in our home and I know the patience and sacrifice the job entails. She was a saint.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for Ann Landers' new booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Mrs. Pat Nixon Tours Russian Museum With Wives of Soviet Heads

BY FRANCES LEWINE
Leningrad — Mrs. Pat Nixon today made a rapid tour through sections of Leningrad's huge Hermitage museum, which houses one of the world's leading collections of European painting and sculpture.

Going along with her, but having a hard time keeping up as they went through rooms which once were part of the winter palace of the Czars, was Mrs. Frol R. Kozlov, wife of the Soviet first deputy prime minister.

Tomorrow's Bridge—Today
Self-Centered South Hogged Bid, Lost Hand

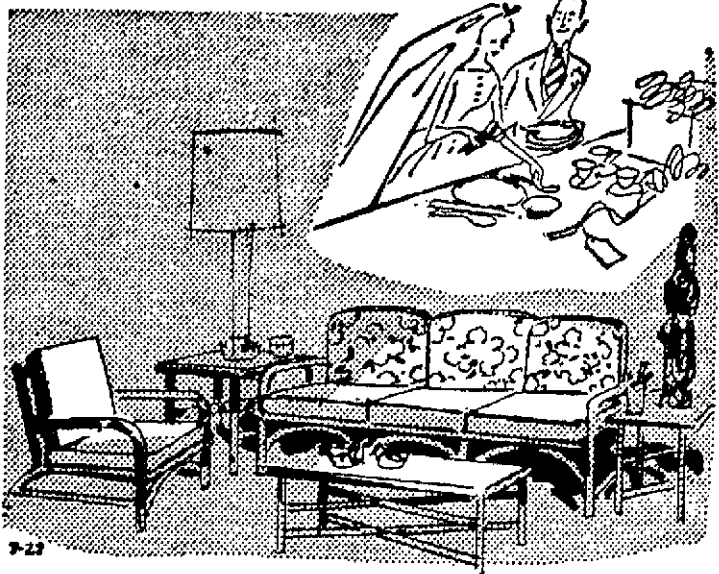

BY WILLIAM SEAMON
Both sides are vulnerable South deals.

NORTH		WEST		EAST
S-Q 3	H-A J 8 4	S-J 10 9 8 6	H-K 10 2	S-K 5 4	H-9 6

D-A K J 10 6	C-Q 5	D-A K J 10 6	C-Q 5	D-A K J 10 6	C-Q 5

The bidding:
South West North East
1 D Pass 2 C Pass
2 D Pass 2 H Pass
2 N T Pass 3 N T Pass
Pass Pass
Opening lead:
Jack of spades.
Finally we see that justice does occasionally triumph in bridge. It is always a source of great aggravation to me to find that dreadful bidding errors manage to get by without paying the penalty. Naturally, the player who gets by with these bloopers does them over and over. I have an idea the South player on this hand will think twice before making the "automatic" bid again.

The bidding is good — to a point. The opening bid is normal as is North's response of two clubs. South rebid two diamonds and North now bid two hearts. So far, so good. South now rebid two no trump and North bid three no trump.

Designing Woman

Starter Set Furniture
Plates, cups and saucers buy for the beginner home come in starter sets, and so do knives, forks and spoons. Why not starter sets of furniture? These must be basic pieces of furniture just as there must be basic tableware, and one enterprising manufacturer will introduce the idea this fall by offering modest furniture essential in well-planned go-together groups. These starter sets are in rattan, in the natural finish, in smart deep brown stain or in lacquer colors.

Have you seen the error? Yes, sir, South's rebid of two no trump is poor judgment. South had nothing to gain by bidding two no trump because his hand contained no tenace, which would give him an edge as declarer. With his spade holding, South should have rebid two spades and let North bid no trump if he so desired. A South never gave the bid of two spades a second thought. After all, if South bid two spades, North would then become declarer and South could not afford to have his partner become the declarer. There may be other terms for this kind of player but I like to think of him as a menace. Against three no trump, West led the jack of spades, which was covered in dummy and East played the king as South ducked. A spade was continued and South again ducked. West now cleared the spade suit with a third lead. Can I find some that are heavy enough to insure complete privacy?"

Boy Should Bring Food For Picnic
BY EMILY POST
Dear Mrs. Post: If a young man asks a girl to go on a picnic with him, who is supposed to supply the food? If the girl provides it, does the young man reimburse her for the amount spent? I always thought the girl brought the food and he paid for any other extras that were involved. My friends disagree with me and say that if he asks the girl he should pay for the food; if she asks him, then she pays for it. Will you please settle this point?

Appreciation For Gift
Dear Mrs. Post: I am always embarrassed and helpless when, for example, several friends are invited to dinner and one arrives with a present and the other two without. Should I open the present and possibly embarrass the two who brought nothing, or put it aside and possibly hurt the one who did? Please tell me the polite thing to do in this situation.

Social Letters
Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me the proper closing for a letter to a social acquaintance? Some of my friends say, "Very truly yours," or "Yours very truly" is correct. Others say that this is incorrect and that "Sincerely yours," or "Sincerely" is the proper close. Answer: Either "Sincerely," or "Very sincerely" is correct for social usage. "Very truly yours" was used in olden times but is a definitely business letter phrase today.

'400' Car Derails Near Lake Bridge

Trainman Hits Emergency To Stop Speeding Streamliner

Neenah — Quick thinking cars and the diner, while the by a Chicago and North West- hind it were left on the main line. Each of the cars carries 62 passengers.

Another 25 people were waiting for the train at the Neenah depot and about 60 were expected to get on the train at Oshkosh and 80 more at Fond du Lac. Additional Streamliner's air brakes when the rear wheels on a passenger car's 4-wheel truck left the track. The train was traveling about 75 miles an hour and it stopped about a quarter-mile west of the lake bridge.

The journal, or axle, on the lead truck of the parlor car broke and the rear wheels left the track. Braeger heard the wheels cutting into the ties and grinding on the side of the track. After he pulled the emergency cord, the streamliner ground to a halt in about 1,000 feet.

Had the train reached the bridge, the derailed car could have pulled the cars into the lake, railroad men said.

The 125 passengers on the train, after an hour's delay, were put into the first two

A Speeding 75-Mile-an-Hour Chicago and North Western southbound streamliner might have plunged into Little Lake Butte des Morts this morning west of Neenah if a trainman had not heard a derailed wheel cut on the ties. He pulled the emergency cord to stop the train about a quarter-mile west of the lake. Marvin Dehnell, baggageman-brakeman, is inspecting the derailed wheel, caused by a broken axle.

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay—One . . . two . . . three . . . four . . .

A large Green Bay family now will be taking count more regularly after it temporarily "misplaced" one of the children Sunday evening.

Visit Market

The story began after 5 p.m. when a car stopped at Harry Wery's Florida Fruit market on the Duck Creek road. Two adults alighted from the vehicle. So did an estimated eight or nine children, all obviously members of the same family.

After the group wandered through the aisles of the sprawling outdoor market and made several purchases, they all got back into the auto and drove away . . .

Conservatory May Become Parking Lot

YMCA Requests Rezoning for Recent Purchase

Appleton YMCA officials have requested rezoning its newly - acquired Lawrence conservatory property to be used as a parking lot. The property would have to be rezoned from a multiple-family to commercial and light industry zone.

The YMCA will take possession of the old conservatory Sept. 1. It then will own almost all of the property on E. Lawrence street between Morrison and Durkee streets north to the alley. The entire half block, except the Patterson company warehouse eventually will be the site of a new YMCA.

Rezoning has been requested only for the portion of the block east to the Patterson warehouse driveway. The YMCA plans to provide an alley to the Patterson warehouse.

Planning Commission The request for the parking lot will be referred to the planning commission.

Al Johnson, YWCA director, has said skyrocketing participation by Fox Cities residents in YMCA programs has forced the organization to seek new property.

"Seven years ago the total physical membership was 1,356. Last year's total was 1,684 — exclusive of youth programs," Johnson said.

Bruce Purdy, Appleton, is heading a building campaign to help raise funds to finish paying for the new property, which cost $182,000.

Peabody hall, the old conservatory, would be razed for the lot. It has been an Appleton landmark for 50 years.

College music activities now are held in the new music-drama center.

Head Injured in Fall

Mrs. Inez Kappell, 804 N. Drew street, received a 3-inch laceration on the back of the head and other head injuries when she fell down the steps at her home about 3 p.m. Saturday. She was taken to Appleton Memorial hospital by Larry's Ambulance.

Over $70 Stolen From Auto Firm; Till Smashed

Thieves took over $70 from the A and W Standard Auto Body company, 2214 S. Oneida street, sometime Saturday night, Appleton police said today.

A cash register valued at about $400 was smashed and several cabinet and file drawers were ransacked.

Police said entry was made by forcing a door leading to the attached root beer stand. The cash register, it is believed, was dropped to the floor.

Tipsy Drivers Pay Fines

2 Men Arrested Over Weekend Lose Licenses

Two men were fined and lost their driving licenses for one year for drunken driving over the weekend.

Lawrence F. Wheelock, 45, Florence street, Kaukauna, paid $125 when he pleaded guilty this morning before Justice Oscar T. Jahns.

Wheelock was arrested at 1:20 a.m. Sunday after his car struck a parked automobile in the 800 block on Lawe street. He tested .23 on a drunkometer. A reading of .15 is considered evidence of drunkenness.

David K. Resop, 26, of 458 Seventh street, Oshkosh, who told Winnebago county police he was celebrating his newborn baby Saturday night, this morning was fined $125 by Municipal Judge S. J. Luchsinger for speeding on a curve and drunken driving.

Resop was arrested after his car skidded 228 feet, hit a utility pole and rolled over 54 feet beyond the pole on Highway 116 in the town of Omro shortly before 6 p.m.

When police arrived they found Resop sitting in the rear seat of his car. He claimed there were two other people riding with him, but witnesses said Resop was alone at the time of the crash. Resop was bruised, but refused first aid.

Last Story Hour

A puppet show will be featured at the Appleton public library's last pre-school story hour of summer vacation at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday. Miss Patricia Ewen, youth librarian, and Miss Alice Dresser, will give the show.

State Approves Annexation Law

Gives Cities Authority to Begin Action to Acquire More Property

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — The League of Wisconsin Municipalities scored its most important political victory in years Friday night as the legislature approved a new annexation law giving cities the initiative in area expansion.
 Coupled with an earlier act providing new controls for incorporating cities and villages, the measure makes the 1959 legislature responsible for a significant combination of laws to accommodate the rapid growth of Wisconsin urban areas.
 The measure will permit a city council, by a two thirds vote, to designate an area for annexation and to petition the circuit court to order a referendum of the voters and property holders involved.
 The court will hold a hearing and opponents may file an opposing petition, with the names of a majority of electors or owners. The court then will dismiss the action. In the absence of petition, the referendum will be held, in the same way other referenda are held upon petition. If the referendum is unfavorable, further action is prohibited for six months.
 The assembly whipped through the annexation procedure, previously endorsed by the senate, by a vote of 75 to 19.
 The bill is sure to be approved by Gov. Nelson, who endorsed it so heartily that he urged the Democratic legislative caucus to back it as a part of his administration's program.
Green Bay Backed
 The measure was backed by two Green Bay legislators, Sen. Leo P. O'Brien who gave it his name, and Assemblyman Jerome Quinn, who negotiated the measure to the crowded calendar of the legislature's closing hours.
 The measure was regarded vital to cities because for the first time it will give them the chance to take positive action to plan expansion.
 The bill passed quickly, after perfunctory argument.
 The only spoken resistance was from Assemblyman R. E. Peterson of Waupaca, who labeled it a very bad bill.
 Cities will be able to try again and again to grab territory, until they catch some poor folks on vacation, he said.
Judge Fines Two Barmen $25 Each
 Richard H. Van Eyck, 26, of 225 E. Circle street, and Roy T. Erickson, 43, of 305 N. State street, bartender at a tavern at 333 W. College avenue, pleaded no contest to a charge of allowing a minor to loiter in the tavern.
 They were fined $25 each by Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmieg. The men were arrested May 23 by Appleton police.

 "I hereby convict you on view for violation of the Sunday blue laws." He handed her a notice.
 "Why I've never won a thing, and I'd rather not win this," the actress joked.
 Like the others, she must, according to the notice, appear today before Dougherty and pay a $4 fine plus $9 costs.
 The same thing happened at the Levittown Times, where employees were working on the weekly paper, and at WBCB, Levittown, where Announcer Mike Mayo allowed him to state his questions on the air.
Others Served
 Then there was a taxicab driver, a Bell Telephone company maintenance man, bowling alley and golf driving range operators, and a variety of merchants and guards at a half-dozen factories, including a Radio Corporation of America plant and the struck Fairless works of U.S. Steel corporation.
 Dougherty said he wanted to serve the workers in some of the plants, but he couldn't get past the guards.
 Two toll collectors at an interchange of the Pennsylvania turnpike referred the notices to higher-ups. A spokesman said the turnpike commission's legal department was studying the case, but the commission felt the turnpike is a necessary function.
 "The toll collectors are being paid, aren't they?" said Dougherty. "They're worldly employed, and that is prohibited by the blue laws."
 Dougherty's tour came at a time when the statehouse is considering a senate-passed bill increasing the fine for violating the 1794 blue laws to $100 for the first offense and $200 for each subsequent offense.

Fire Razes Kettner Barn

Loss Estimated At $20,000; Two Young Cows Killed
Hortonville — A fire at the Carl Kettner farm, town of Ellington, caused some $20,000 damage about 11:15 p. m. Sunday as the barn was razed and two young heifers were killed.
 Raymond Richards, secretary-treasurer of the Hortonville fire department, estimated the loss and said 3,000 bales of hay inside the barn and 300 bales outside also were destroyed.
 The blaze was reported by a neighbor about the time the Kettners saw the fire as they returned from an outing in Appleton. The father of the baby sitter, a neighbor who was with the Kettner's five children, also saw the fire about the same time.
 The Hortonville department battled the blaze until 3 a. m. and the Shiocton department was called in for standby.
 High winds scattered sparks into the neighboring grain fields. Efforts to prevent the spread of the fire in the grain and onto the house were successful. The machine shed was saved.
 Richards said the fire apparently started near an open door in the barn. The cause is unknown.

Play About Dreams Proves Entertaining

'Rainmaker' New Highpoint of Theater's Young Season at Music and Drama Center

BY JAY JOSLYN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

N. Richard Nash's "The Rainmaker" is an appropriate show for the Attie theater's first season at the Lawrence music and drama center.

The very fine comedy-drama of the west is an exposition of the proper place of dreams in life. Lizzie, the heroine, declares that life cannot be void of dreams nor can it be only dreams, but something in between.

The wedding of the Attie theater and the center is the culmination of a long dream, but now the pure dreaming has ended and "The Rainmaker's" mixture of dreams and solid performance is the order of the day.

Expert Style

The two presentations this season have given good indication that Mrs. F. Theodore Cloak and company have taken Lizzie's advice to heart. They are producing fine writing in expert style and their season is surmounting even the wildest dreams. The company's policy has changed to eight performances with a production this Tuesday night and a matinee, the first in its history, scheduled Saturday.

"The Rainmaker" production is a new high point of a season that promises to be made of high points.

Mrs. Cloak has a company of fine actors who have caught up reality in their ensemble acting. There is no standout performer. The play's the thing, and, if you can get in, it makes for a wonderful evening of entertainment.

The Nash show is a tautly paced play that superimposes fantasy on realism in a believable mosaic made up of two star-crossed humans, each seeking happiness and fulfillment everywhere but of the theater's potential.

with each other, where it awaits them.

Betty Zimmerman is entrusted with the difficult task of portraying the "plain" girl who discovers a dream to unfold into a beautiful and music and drama center, wanted woman and she richly repays the trust. The intimacy of the arena adds impact to the transformation but increases the problems of establishing the warmth and tenderness of the transformation.

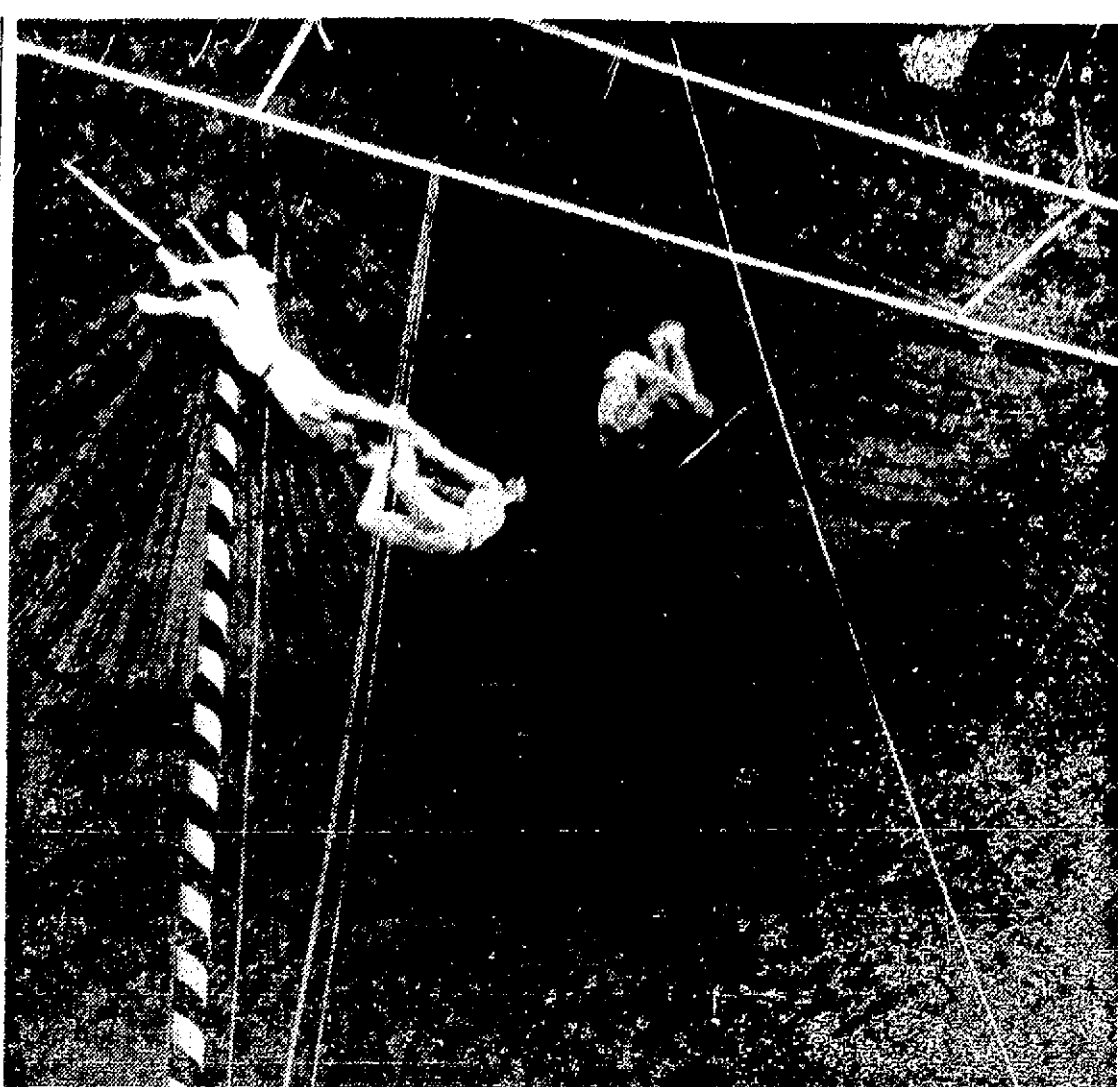

The Catalyst

The other integral part in the mosaic is a lonely, withdrawn deputy sheriff who, having been stung once by a woman, resolves to avoid them. Daril Riley plays the part tensely and skillfully reveals the losing battle he's fighting with himself.

The analyst that sweeps into the parched pattern of a drought-haunted plains and punctures the plight of the people with his penchant for dreaming is the Rainmaker, played with verve and style by Tom McGuire. His appearance picks up the pace and tone of the show and sets it up for the whirlwind conclusion.

Supporting these mainstays are finely drawn vignettes: the hopeful but helpless father played by Ottmar A. Bodemer; the dominating, dreamless older brother, Richard Heinzkill; the post-adolescent younger brother who rebels, Rick McIntyre; and the fatherly sheriff, Charles Schuman. All of their portrayals are solid, sparkling with vitality.

The ingenious experimental theater must come in for some special notice. The modern lighting facilities were used to paint each of the three sets so precisely that the others faded from the stage—a welcomed improvement and only a part of the theater's potential.

The Flying Alexanders, famous Ringling aerialists, are three of the dozen or so real big top performers who appear in the movie, "The Big Circus," which opens Wednesday at the Appleton theater.

Circus Movie Has Imposing Array of Stars

The circus is coming back to town, this time as a movie, "The Big Top," with a cast that includes an imposing array of both real circus performers and screen stars.

The technicolor movie which had its world premiere earlier this month in Baraboo will open Wednesday at the Appleton theater. Guests of the theater at the special 1 p.m. matinee Wednesday will be Appleton Post-Crescent newsboys and handicapped children of the Fox Cities and their attendants.

Appearing in traditional circus acts are more than a dozen big top artists.

They include the Flying Alexanders, top trapeze performers and aerialists; the human cannonball Hugo Zacchini; Gene Mendez, the famous wire-walker who works without a net, from Mexico's Ataide circus; Ronnie Lewis and his two sisters, high ladder equilibrists from Polack Brothers circus; still-walker Chet Hayes; Roza the clown; Tex Car and his chimpanzees; Dick Berg's movieland seals; and Dick Walker and his lion act from Jungeland, Thousand Oaks, Calif.

Playing principal roles in the movie are Rhonda Fleming, Victor Mature, Kathryn Grant, Red Buttons, Vincent Price, Peter Lorre, David Nelson and Gilbert Roland.

Mature plays the owner of the circus; Price is the red-coated, whip-cracking ringmaster. Miss Fleming portrays the woman press agent and comedian Red Buttons is seen as the banker who follows the circus and has one hilarious night as a clown.

Miss Grant, Roland, David Nelson and Adele Mara appear as trapeze artists and perform in several aerial acts. Steve Allen, TV performer, also is in the movie, playing himself.

Lorre, noted as one of the screen's finest character actors, portrays a clown.

Hope Has Hopes Autograph Won't Be Too Expensive

London —(P)—Bob Hope sleepily signed a blank check held out by an autograph seeker as he waited for a plane to Brussels.

"The guy dashed off with the check, calling back that he wanted to have some fun with his friends," the American comedian told a reporter at London airport. "I hope he doesn't have too much fun."

"However, I didn't use my bank signature, and if the check should be presented, my bank wouldn't honor it—I hope."

Hope was en route to the Belgian capital to keep a golfing date with King Baudouin, whom he met during the king's recent tour of America.

Higher Property Taxes Predicted for Menasha

Informal Estimates Span $3 to $6; New Items Cause Rise
Menasha — Unless city departmental budgets for 1960 are lower than 1959, property taxes will go up.
Officials' informal predictions of next year's tax rate boost range from $3 to $6. However, no city official will make a public commitment.
An increase of $1.37 1/2 above this year's $32 per $1,000 rate was assured in June when the city council approved bonding for construction of the new sixth elementary school and conversion of Butte des Morts school into a junior high.
Under the $32 tax rate, the city this year raised $1,280,823 in property taxes, of which $499,518 was for city government purposes. (The rest went for schools, county and state taxes.)
Most Committed
Under the same tax rate, the city next year would raise $46,708 more, since the assessed valuation rose in the last year to $41,485,410.
But most of this new money is committed, since three new items are planned for the next year's budget. They are a new garbage-packer truck with a 4-man crew, building supervisor and public health nurse.
A new garbage - packer truck, given preliminary approval last week by the council, will cost about $15,000. Each of its four crew members will be paid about $5,000 a year.
The city building, heating and plumbing supervisor's post, pays $5,000 a year, plus $420 car expense.
The city is in the process of hiring a public health

Valuation Jumps $1,459,670 in '59, $41,485,410 Total
Menasha — Real estate and personal property assessments have jumped $1,459,670 in the last year.
This year's assessment, prepared by Assessor Tom Zeininger and his assistant, Franklin Hallada, total $41,485,410. Last year's figure was $40,025,740.
Carton Firm Lost
The city's total valuation reflects the removal of machinery assessed at $133,490 from John Strange Carton company's Washington street plant to the town of Menasha. Personal property this year is assessed at $5,282,400, compared to $5,245,750 last year, or up $36,650. It is 12.73 per cent of the total valuation.
Under Wisconsin law, personal property includes boats, furnishings and fixtures in business houses, machinery and tools, and merchants' and manufacturers' stock.
Residential property is 50.77 per cent of the total, or $21,060,440.
Open House This Week
Commercial land and improvements are assessed at $2,898,670, or 6.99 per cent. The bulk lies in the First ward.
Manufacturing assessments total $12,243,900, or 29.51 per cent of the total. Second and Third wards hold most of this class.
Zeininger has mailed 380 cards to property owners facing changed assessments. From Wednesday to Friday, he will hold open house in his office to discuss assessment changes. Hours will be 9 a.m. to noon and 1-4 p.m.

Wage, Salary Study
Still in process is a wage and salary adjustment study covering all city employees, including policemen and firemen, street and sanitation crews.
Besides the general property tax, the city's other major source of revenue is the state income tax rebate. Aldermen estimated $300,000 this year, of which $215,999 has been received. Another payment is due in August.
In September 1960, the new Sixth street school will open, with the need for one or two additional teachers. Another school means added expense of maintenance, heating and custodial services. In the junior high building, at least two new teachers will be hired for the shop and home economics classes. Hence, the school budget will go up next year, although it is nearly impossible to determine how much.

Mother Goose Day Events Set Tuesday

Shattuck to Head Hospital Committee

Accepts Chairmanship of Advance Gifts Group for Expansion Fund Campaign

Neenah — S. F. Shattuck will head the advance gifts committee to provide funds for the expansion of Theda Clark Memorial hospital, Leo E. Croy, general chairman of the campaign organization, announced today.
The hospital, rebuilt after World War II, is already outgrown, Croy said.
"Furthermore," Croy explained, "the man who carried the heavy end of construction and maintenance from the original 25-bed unit in 1908 down to the modern addition in 1948 is no longer with us. The future of Theda Clark hospital now rests in the lap of the people it was built to serve."

Worked Together
"For many years Frank Shattuck and C. B. 'Bill' Clark worked together on civic projects. Now Mr. Shattuck in memory of his close friend gladly accepts the chairmanship of this important hospital project to meet the demands of this fast-growing area for 20 years in the future."

24-Bed Capacity
Croy said the present expansion and modernization program will increase the capacity of the Theda Clark hospital to 244 patient beds and more than double the present space for the out-patient and bed-patient services, dealing with the diagnosis and treatment of illness, and the "housekeeping" areas and the dietary department.
The building program will take about four years. It will consist of one new 7-story wing, extending south from the center of the newest hospital wing, opened in 1948, facing Lincoln street.

Members of the hospital board of trustees, the medical staff, the industries and individuals of larger giving ability are being asked for subscriptions to the building program. Later, everyone will be asked to share in the largest community project ever undertaken, Croy said.

The immediate and pressing need is for more patient beds, Croy added. More beds are provided by placing them in the corridors or hallways at present.

Of equal importance is to substantially increase laboratories, X-ray, physical therapy, dietary and the normal service units areas required by a modern hospital, he explained.

Members of the hospital board of trustees, the medical staff, the industries and individuals of larger giving ability are being asked for subscriptions to the building program.

Pre-Hispanic Artifacts Which are part of the ancient Mexican culture are among the items on display at the John Nelson Bergstrom Art Center and Museum in Neenah now through Thursday. The museum will be open Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Some of the artifacts date from 500 B. C. while others are prior to 900 A. D.

Museum Shows Artifacts Dating From 500 B. C.

Neenah — Among Mexican culture items displayed at the John Nelson Bergstrom Art Center and Museum is a collection of pre-Hispanic artifacts, the oldest of which dates from about 500 B.C.

The pieces on display until Thursday have been loaned to the museum by the Milwaukee public museum and by Dr. Gordon R. Welley, director of the Peabody Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology at Harvard university, through Unofficial Ambassadors, Inc., of Washington.

A standing man from the Mezcala valley in Guerrero state is the oldest piece on display. It is made from a green stone native to the area.

Obsidian and jadeite masks of the Toltec culture dating from 600 A.D., come from a culture which vanished as mysteriously from the Valley of Mexico as it arrived. The Toltecs are believed to have built the city of Tula and perhaps the renowned pyramids of the sun and moon at Teotihuacan. Several Mayan items have been loaned by Unofficial Ambassadors to the art center, including four terra cotta utensils.

One of these ceramic pieces is executed in the rarely found carved orange style and another is of the slate ware pattern. A carved jadeite plaque fragment showing a May priest in ceremonial dress also is on display, as is with a stone barkbeater used by the Maya to make paper from bark.

Two Zapotec funerary urns, one from the Peabody museum and the other from the Milwaukee Public museum, are on and date from 200 to 900 A.D.

A laughing dancer and a compressed ax-head are examples of the Tajin or classic Vera Cruz period which dates from 800 to 900 A.D. Made by the Totonac peoples, whose cultural center was along the Eastern coast of Mexico, the use of these ancient artifacts still remain an enigma to the archaeologist.

Pottery figurines from the Colima, Nayarit and Tarascan cultures of northwest Mexico are among the most colorful and humorous pieces on exhibition. A piece of Aztec stone sculpture illustrates the artistic tastes of the last of the great Indian civilizations.

The next exhibition will be a show of the works of three Wisconsin artists, Harold Altman, Milwaukee, Allyn Amundson, Madison, and Sarah Brenzel, Kaukauna.

Neenah Resident Entertains Parade Of Foreign Guests

Neenah — A Neenah woman who has opened her home to many foreign exchange students has as her house guest this month her niece from Germany.

Miss Dora Nafzger from Biberach, Germany, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Albrecht Gross, 711 Hewitt street, for three weeks.

For several years Mrs. Gross has been a leader for the Experiment in International Living project. Earlier this summer several Mexicans stayed with her, and in a few weeks Delores Rollette, an Austrian girl who has been teaching at Aldephi college, Garden City, N.Y., will be her guest.

"The Grosses have been to Germany and had told me about the way of life here, so I knew what to expect," the soft spoken brunette said. "I think the lake is so nice here and the lawns so well cared for. I was much impressed with the fireworks and big parade the Fourth of July. I like the people here very much, the parties and the picnics."

The young woman, who speaks precise English with an Oxford accent, handles foreign correspondence for the Dr. Carl Thomae Pharmaceutical company at her home. She attended a special language school after the war

September Rite Planned by Engaged Pair

Neenah — Mr. and Mrs. Donald Christensen, 117 Mayer street, have announced the engagement of their daughter Kay Carol, to Harold Mueller, son of Mrs. George Mueller, route 5, Oshkosh.

Miss Christensen and her fiancé are Neenah High school graduates. She is employed by George Banta company and Mr. Mueller operates a farm.

A Sept. 26 wedding is planned.

Resident Attends Eastman School

Neenah — Miss Gladys Michalsen, 111½ Bond street, has returned from Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N.Y., where she attended summer classes for two weeks for piano teachers and organists.

and studied English for six weeks in London during 1955.

She describes Biberach as "an ancient town of about 20,000, dating back to the Middle Ages. Christoff Martin Wieland, a German poet, who wrote at the same time as Shakespeare, lived there. Today many tourists passing through tour the Wieland museum."

Besides driving her motor scooter to and from work, she uses it for excursions into the nearby mountains of southern Germany and for trips to Lake Constance, where she swims. In the evenings she watches television or visits the company club house. She plays the piano and likes athletics.

"Living conditions here are different," she observed. "People here are taking life much easier than in Germany. Here they have a higher standard of living, but the cost of maintaining it is cheaper."

During her visit, Miss Nafzger has traveled around Wisconsin with the Grosses. She enjoys swimming in the lake and pool, but after a water skiing attempt, she decided the sport "looks much easier than it is."

Mr. and Mrs. Gross, who have entertained many foreign guests since 1952, lived in Mexico City for a year and a half and has traveled extensively through Europe on several occasions.

The international hostess teaches Spanish at the vocational school. She explained that she likes to travel in countries where languages she has studied are spoken.

Miss Nafzger's first trip to the United States will end Aug. 6 when she sails from New York City after visiting the Grosses' son, Kurt, who works for the state department in Washington, D.C.

Neenah Brother, Sister Stage Art Show for Neighborhood Moppets

Neenah — Although no junior-size Rembrandt's, Picassos or VanGoghs may have been discovered, an outdoor art show, sponsored by an imaginative Neenah brother and sister Friday afternoon, temporarily answered the midsummer question of "what to do now" for mothers in the Chestnut-Burr streets area.

Thirteen-year-old Ned Rightor and his sister, Gwynn, 10, received an enthusiastic response from neighborhood youngsters invited to participate in the backyard exhibit. Ned, who supervised classification of entries and the visiting moppet critics, tabulated nearly 60 entries.

A circular clothesline and wood pyramid structure served as the gallery. Fastened with clothespins, landscapes, colorful abstract designs, misty mauve sunsets, pencil drawings and gay posters fluttered in the breeze. Large dog sketches, entered by Sue Hirsch, were propped on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rightor, 521 Burr avenue.

Prizes of candy were awarded to blue ribbon winners in the three divisions, ages 4 to 6; 7 to 10; and 11 to 13. Judging the paintings, sketches and posters were Gary Anderson and Mrs. W. H. Graebner. Red and green ribbons also were distributed in each division.

Braves Only 2 Games Out After Stopping Bucs Twice

Spahn Hurls Shutout In Opener

By The Associated Press
No Milwaukee burgher is hanging Fred Haney in effigy today. Nobody is whispering that Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette are over the hill. The Braves are up and at 'em again with a 4-game winning streak.

Trailing the league - leading San Francisco Giants by only two games after a sweep of Sunday's doubleheader with Pittsburgh, Milwaukee seems to have snapped out of its mid-summer slump.

Spahn's emphatic 5-hitter in the 4-0 opener was the Braves' third straight shutout.

Snaps String
One unearned run in the fourth inning of the second game finally snapped a string of 30 2-3 scoreless innings for Pittsburgh but it didn't help much. They still lost, 2-1, to Bob Buhl, making his first start since June 19 after a siege of arm trouble.

Spahn's thirteenth victory, the 250th of his long career, was impressive. Buhl tired after seven innings and Don McMahon finished up with two hitless innings.

The Milwaukee attack still sputtered and stalled. They had only six hits in the opener while handing Bob Friend his thirteenth defeat. One was Johnny Logan's twelfth homer. They had only five hits in the second but one was Joe Adcock's eleventh homer.

A gleeful crowd of 39,420 watched at County stadium.

Milwaukee attempts a sweep of the 5-game series with the oblique Pirates today with righthander Joey Jay down to face Ronnie Kline.

The Braves did not display much of an attack at the plate, managing only six hits, but supplied Spahn all he needed with runs in each of the first two innings.

In the first inning, Billy Bruton singled to left, stole second and continued on to third on a wild throw by the catcher. He scored on Joe Adcock's single to left center.

Avila Singles
Milwaukee made it 2-0 in the second on a pair of walks and Bobby Avila's single. Johnny Logan accounted for the final runs with his homer, a 2-run blast over the left field fence in the sixth.

Buhl made his first start since June 19 and showed no effects of a shoulder ailment. The rugged veteran allowed

Packer Rookies Run Through 1st Scrimmage

Lombardi Greets 26 Holdovers From 1958 Squad

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service
Green Bay — Packer rookies scrimmaged Sunday — just four days after reporting, while a select group of 32 veterans exercised and bumped, briefly and had their pictures taken.

Thus, the first "practice" was conducted for the entire cast of around 60 Packers at the Oneida street drill grounds before 500 spectators who sweated out a broiling sun.

Official 2-a-day workouts were scheduled to open today — at 10 and 3.

26 Are Holdovers
The picture-snapped veterans included 26 holdovers from the 1958 squad and six players obtained from clubs — Lamar McHan, Bill Quinlan, Fred Thurston, Bob Freeman, Emlen Tunnell and Lew Carpenter.

Holdovers greeted by Coach Vince Lombardi were backs Al Carmichael, Howie Ferguson, Joe Francis, Paul Hornung, Don McIlhenny, Earl Miller, Babe Parrilli, Al Romine, Bart Starr, John Symank and Jim Taylor and the linemen Tom Bettis, Nate Borden, Dan Currie, Bill Foster, Forrest Gregg, Dave Hanner, Jerry Hellum, Gary Knapfel, Jerry Kramer, Norm Mosters, Max McGee, Steve Meilinger, Jim Ringo, Bob Skoronski and Jim Temp.

Veteran Hank Gremminger was due in today while sophomore Ray Nitschke, now in service, will report early in September.

Many familiar faces are missing — Billy Howton, who went to the Browns for Quinlan and Carpenter, Bobby Dillon, Jess Whitendon, Ollie Spencer, Billy Kinard, Jim Shanley, Joe Johnson, Jim Salisbury, Marv Matuszak, Len Ford and Hank Bullough, all of whom represent almost one-third of the entire 1958

Rips Shawano In Meet Finals, 9-2

Clintonville — For the third straight year Little Chute-Kimberly has won the championship in the Fox Valley District semi - pro baseball tournament.

LC-K knocked off Manawa, 11-0, in Saturday's tourney semi-finals behind the 7-inning no-hitter of Bob Schmidt. Then, the Merchants stopped Shawano, 9-2, in Sunday's finals as Al Harke twirled an 8-hitter.

The tourney championship moves the Fox River Valley Amateur league powerhouse into the 1959 Wisconsin State semi-pro tournament in Milwaukee Aug. 5-9.

Schmidt struck out nine and walked two in his brilliant effort Saturday. Dave Roman, Lee Guetchow and Fran Gertschen divided the pitching chores for the losers with Roman getting pegged with the loss.

Pair of Hits
Ed Thomas, former Fox Cities Foxes player, Gene Peerenboom and Hank Peerenboom each had a pair of hits Saturday.

In Saturday's other semi-final encounter Shawano stopped Waupaca, 7-3. Manawa defeated Waupaca, 7-2, Sunday for consolation honors. Winner Dave Roman allowed six hits over the 6-inning route and George Roman led Manawa with three hits. Duane Sheets was the loser.

In Sunday's finals Bob Maulick pasted a pair of long home runs to back up Harke. Thomas smacked two doubles and a single in that one while Gene Peerenboom hit a trio of doubles.

Floyd Hammen doubled and singled in the 14-hit LC-K offense.

LC-K players dominated the tournament individual awards.

Schmidt was selected the best pitcher while Gene Peerenboom was the leading hitter, with 7-for-11. LC-K's Harke was chosen the most valuable player. Bonduel's Jerry Marohl was selected the best prospect for pro ball.

The team sportsmanship trophy went to Bonduel.

Little Chute-Kimberly also led the representation on the tourney All-Star team with six men named — Hank and Gene Peerenboom, Maulick, Winning softball tournaments is getting to be a habit with Appleton's Subway bar nine.

The champion of last weekend's Luxemburg tournament, Subway added the huge Fox Valley Softball tourney trophy to its collection Sunday night. The championship game victory was a 4-2 verdict over Gay Spot—a Green Bay team playing for an Appleton sponsor.

A crowd of over 700 observed the finals. Other tourney games were also well attended.

Les Dietzen, the tourney's most valuable pitcher, hurled a 3-hitter to knock off Gay Spot. The losers, playing as Machett's bar, had captured the recent Kaukauna Recreation association meet.

Dietzen, veteran Appleton right-hander, had tossed a 4-hitter to give Subway a 6-2 victory over Oscar's of Fond du Lac earlier in the tourney. And, his 2-hitter knocked off Wertsch Motors of Oshkosh, 3-1, in the semi-finals.

Gives 3 Singles
As in his two earlier tourney wins, Dietzen didn't have an impressive strikeout total Sunday night, fanning three.

But the three hits off him were all singles, he walked just three and he got tougher as the game went on.

Winning consolation honors Sunday night was Wally Lom's Bar of Green Bay which defeated Wertsch Motors of Oshkosh, 3-0.

Subway center fielder Claude Radtke was chosen the meet's most valuable player. Radtke doubled and scored the tying run in the finals and his homer in the tenth inning had won an earlier game.

Sunday night's loser was another right-handed vet. Pat

Record State Conservation Budget Should Satisfy Sports-Minded

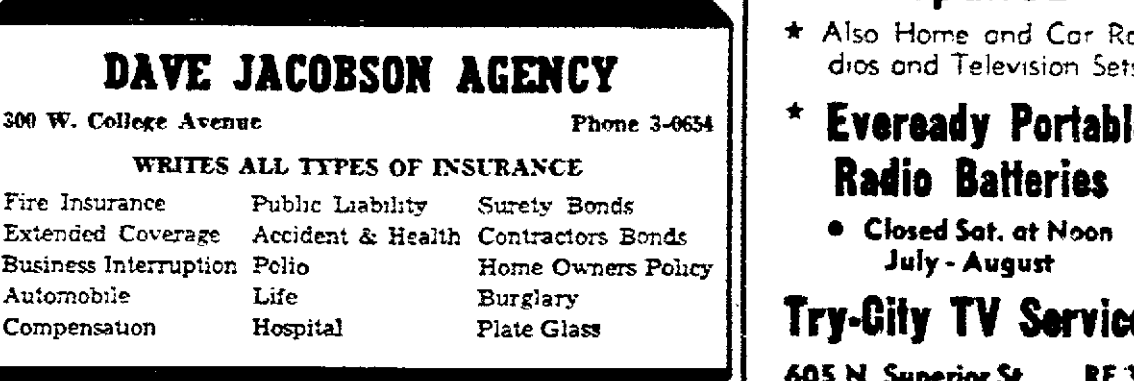

Bounty Decision Evaded
—if on a modest basis—when Madison — What the legislature did about the state conservation department budget during its session that closed during the weekend will please or satisfy the outdoors-minded public, according to its tastes.

The new budget is a big one, with a record of about $28,000,000 authorized for expenditure during the next two years, which means that fish and game programs will be continued at the enlarged pace of the last two years.

But the legislature was unable to come to a settlement of the controversial park financing question, and it evaded a decision on wild animal predator bounties in which there is a strong and pressing interest in rural counties and especially in the north.

Meanwhile it followed Gov. Nelson's lead and struck out into two new policy directions. The Conservation department insists the state parks must have more money to serve increasing public demands upon them. But neither the legislature or the governor is prepared to provide more money out of general tax funds and the sportsmen's lobby fights the idea of fish and game fund diversions.

The governor supported a system of sticker fees for park users, and the senate agreed to the plan in the final days. But it was snagged in the state assembly, where there is likely to be considerable resistance to the idea. Meanwhile the legislature has again provided machinery for an interim study of parks and Conservation department financing in general, under the guidance of the joint legislative council.

Milwaukee's Johnny Logan, ball in glove, is poised to tag Pittsburgh's sliding Roberto Clemente in the first inning of the nightcap of Sunday's second game. Logan took the throw from catcher Del Crandall to nail Clemente, who was trying to swipe second. Milwaukee won, 2-1, after a 4-0 win in the opener.

Foxes Capture Pair Of 1-Run Decisions

Earl Furlow Wins, 1-0, Over Braves

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Big Earl Furlow capped the son for the Fox Cities Foxes by wheeling a 1-0 victory past the Cedar Rapids Braves Saturday on Knights of Columbus booster night.

With the win the Foxes took five of six games played at home this week. The spree included three straight from Burlington and two in a row from the Braves after Cedar Rapids took the opener of the set Thursday night.

Furlow had the Braves in his pocket all the way. He was in serious trouble only once, that in the sixth when Cedar Rapids loaded the bases with one out.

Furlow gave up a base hit to leadoff batter Johnny Stratton in the first but Stratton was erased in a speedy double play. Furlow then pitched perfect ball retiring the next 13 batters until Mack Jones singled in the sixth.

Held to 3 Hits
The Foxes' winning run was scored by Phil Condu in the first without the aid of a base hit. Condu grounded one to Dennis Menke, the Braves' $100,000 bonus baby, who flipped it wide to Sid Goldfader at first and the ball got away, rolling down the right field line.

While Goldfader and right fielder Ray Withrow tried to decide who should chase the ball down, Condu pumped all the way to third. The error seemed to upset the Braves and the Three-I league's top winner, Larry Moxie, as he fired the next pitch in the dirt.

Doubleheader Cancelled

Two IL Players Hit by Stray Bullets in Trigger-Happy Havana

Havana — The Havana Sugar Kings and the Rochester Red Wings are far from this trigger-happy city today, and the Red Wings, at least, couldn't be happier for there are no bullets flying around the ball parks.

The Cubans are in Montreal and the Wings at home for the opening series Thursday night against the Royals and Richmond Virginians, respectively. In fact the Wings have been home since Sunday. They couldn't get out of this celebrating town fast enough following the hitting of two players by stray bullets and the calling of Saturday night's games after 11 innings with the score tied, 4-4.

Sunday's doubleheader was cancelled by approval of International League President Frank Shaughnessy after he heard from the umpires a telephone report of Saturday night's incidents.

Refused to Play
The Wings, whose Frank Verdi was knocked down when a bullet struck his plastic helmet, refused to play and appealed their decision to Shaughnessy.

"I told them (Rochester) if didn't want to play, they didn't have to. I wouldn't ask them to play under those conditions. This is the 26th of July and celebrations for Castro are still going on," Shaughnessy said.

Havana's Leo Cardenas was struck in the shoulder by a stray slug but was not injured seriously. The Havana management wanted to play the doubleheader but bowed to Shaughnessy's ruling.

Saturday night's incidents were the result of the wild celebrations that rocked this country's capital as Prime Minister Fidel Castro's followers celebrated the anniversary of the revolutionary movement.

Shaughnessy said he was informed that some of the fans in the stands Saturday night had tommy guns and were firing them into the air.

Stengel Adds 3 New Hurlers To 'Star Squad

Pascual, McLish and O'Dell Replace Ford, Pierce and Bunning

Boston — The Pitchers Cal McLish, Billy O'Dell and Camilo Pascual have replaced three other hurlers on the American league squad for the second All-Star game, President Joe Cronin announced today.

The contest will be played at Los Angeles, Aug. 3.

Manager Casey Stengel, field boss of the defending world champion New York Yankees, has inserted Cleveland's McLish, Baltimore's O'Dell and Washington's Pascual in place of Jim Bunning of Detroit, "Whitey" Ford of New York and Billy Pierce of Chicago.

The latter were on the squad for the first All-Star game at Pittsburgh, July 7, won by the Nationals 5-4.

Stengel also added three outfielders when the squad limit was raised from 25 to 28 players for the second game. The additional fly chasers include Bob Allison of Washington, Kansas City's Roger Maris and Gene Woodling of Baltimore.

The rest of the squad remains the same as it appeared in Pittsburgh.

Russia Employs Propaganda to Create Illusions of Huge Progress

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

New York — Soviet Russia in the United States. It partly pursues the course of empire differently from the great empire builders of the past. The Romans sent legions to conquer countries. The Russians do not conquer, they subdue. Napoleon, when he took over lands, reorganized them, placed new rulers over them, established dynasties. The Russians operate through a universal political party, utilizing natives to establish an indigenous Soviet government and to execute its orders.

Effect Visible Here
Of these devices, the most clever is the utilization of intellectual confusion through the world. While lesser groups appeal to the grass roots, the Russians devote themselves to leadership groups. Native communist parties work among the minority elements, such as Negroes, Jews and pacifists. But the imported Russians only meet the rich and the powerful. Well prepared arrangements are made to meet important personalities. Even greater effort is set to convince all the intellectual elements of every country that Russia is superior.

The psychological effect of is due to the general downgrading of Russia. For years, Americans were told they possessed know-how. Nobody else possessed this quality. Then came Sputnik and it suddenly was discovered that Russia also possessed know-how. The effect was startling to those who forgot that for at least 1,000 years, Russia was a rising power in Europe. Our tourists who go to Moscow and discover a large building forget that in New York or Pittsburgh or Chicago such buildings crowd each other.

Moral Question
The moral question of empire is too often overlooked altogether. Soviet Russia has expanded, partly by the accident of war but principally by intrigue, assassination, mob bloodshed but always by fictitious propaganda. All one has to read is the huge volume of falsehoods that Soviet Russia and her satellites let loose about the United States.

For instance, we are not supposed to enjoy freedom of the press. Why? Because our press is commercial and monopolistic. Soviet Russia's press is free. Why? Because the entire press is owned by the government. In the United States, such pro-Russian publications as "The Worker," "Masses and Mainstream," "The Nation" are published without any interference. Are there similar publications in Soviet Russia? No. Yet, we do not have a free press and they do!

The Russian techniques of empire-building are brilliant and competent. They are also immoral. Against their efforts, ours have not been very successful because our officials are responsible to public opinion and our people would not relish Russian methods. (Copyright, 1959)

Like basement bargain days, the money-minded gals enter the final lap of a stampede for the $6,500 first award in the $20,000 Mount Prospect Women's open.

In front with 54-hole totals of 219—three strokes under par for the distance—are Betsy Rawls and Beverly Hanson. On their heels at 220 are Mickey Wright and Louise Suggs.

Hanson Scores
At 221 comes 45-year-old Fay Crocker, determined bidder whose home is in Montevideo, Uruguay.

Miss Hanson, top money-winner last year, made her bid Sunday with a 71 while Miss Rawls, current LPGA champion, authored 73. Miss Wright, winner of the National open the last two years, slipped to a 75 and Miss Suggs settled for a 74.

Five Injured In New London Auto Accidents

Three Hurt in Mishap Sunday, 2 Others Saturday

New London — Five people were injured Saturday and Sunday in two separate traffic accidents, city police report. None was hospitalized.

Three were hurt about 2:35 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of Highways 45 and 54. Arnold A. Reinke, 714 Lincoln street, was driving a car that was struck in the rear by a car driven by Margaret Ann Blank, 316 Wisconsin street. Both were going north on Highway 45 and the Reinke car was stopped to turn left onto Highway 54.

Sore Neck

Mrs. Inez Robinson, 72, 206 Second street, Neenah, complained of a sore neck, and Susan Reinke, 8, 714 Lincoln street, complained of a sore neck in the Reinke car and Thomas Blank, four months, had a bruised forehead in the Blank car.

Mrs. Arnold Lange, 51, Milwaukee, had a scratch on her chin and an injured right leg in a car driven by her husband which was involved in an accident about 10:45 a.m. Saturday about one-half mile south of the city limits on County D. John Lange, 33, Milwaukee, also a passenger in the car, had a bruised right shoulder.

Robert C. Niemann, 1104 Keenah street, was going south on D and turning left into the New London Engineering company factory. Lange was driving north. Niemann turned back to the right side of the road and the Milwaukee car turned to the right and went into the ditch, police said.

Nekoosa Paper Company Reports Higher Earnings

Increased sales and earnings for the first half of 1959 were reported by Nekoosa-Paper company, a leading producer of business papers.

John E. Alexander, president and general manager, told shareholders at the firm's annual meeting that sales for the first six months of 1959 were $22,736,121, compared with $19,418,135 a year ago.

Earnings, rebounding from the 1958 dip, were up near the pre-recession level, from $1,197,814 to $1,701,641. On a per share basis, this is an increase from 71 cents to $1.

Paper shipments increased from 61,529 tons for the first half of 1958 to 72,570 tons so far this year.

Alexander described a series of machine improvements at the firm's mills in Nekoosa and Potsdam, N. Y., all aimed at providing "maximum manufacturing flexibility to conform with our customers' requirements."

At the Port Edwards sulfite mill, he said, studies are progressing to increase the oxygen content of the Wisconsin river. New pulping processes also are being studied which may provide higher quality pulp.

Shares Rise In Quiet Trade

Most Advances On N. Y. Exchange Are Fractional

New York — The stock market scratched out a mild advance in relaxed trading early this afternoon.

Key shares generally stepped fractionally higher. Some ran up gains of two points or so. But a number of losers sprinkled the list.

U.S. Steel paced a firm steel group with an advance of more than a point. Youngstown Sheet & Tube picked up around a point. Bethlehem and Republic Steel added fractions.

Reynolds Metals spurred ahead more than 2. Anaconda, American Smelting and Phelps Dodge scored small gains. Kennecott dipped about half a point.

American Motors gained more than a point. General Motors and Studebaker-Packard also were higher.

Emerson Radio slipped about a point and a half and Philco about a point. Litton Industries moved ahead more than 2.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 40 cents to $232.20 with the industrials up 70 cents, the rails up 30 cents and the utilities unchanged.

U. S. government bonds edged higher.

High Bridge Work Goes on

Power Company Employees Busy On Separate Job

Work on the College avenue high bridge continued today, but at a slower than normal pace.

Wunderlich Brothers Construction company had about 10 men moving steel and welding today, compared with nearly 20 men ordinarily at work on the giant structure.

Ora Wunderlich said his men were making room for another steel shipment, expected today. After they finish that work and the welding, there will be little left to do, he said.

Steel Tower

Construction is being slowed because Hennes Trucking company employees refuse to cross the Laborers Local 931 picket lines, protesting the non-union Wunderlich contract. Hennes employees were to have erected a 105-foot tower, carrying Kimberly-Clark corporation power lines over the bridge. Until the lines are moved, construction is impossible.

Wisconsin Michigan Power company employees were busy today sheathing another set of wires that will pass under the bridge. Company officials said the wires should be sheathed to prevent crane accidents.

The lines service the Interlake mill of Consolidated Water Power and Paper company. The tower construction project and the Interlake project are not related, power company officials said. They explained workmen were not asked to cross the picket lines.

Possible Shift In Miss Hart's Wedding Date

Short Hills, N.J. — A spokesman for the Ralph A. Hart family says there has been some discussion about changing the date of Jacqueline Gay Hart's wedding. It is scheduled for Aug. 29.

George Gaines did not elaborate for newsmen yesterday. He is the brother of Stanley Gaines, 25, Jacqueline's fiancé.

Hart, executive vice president of the Colgate-Palmolive company, has ruled out immediate comment about the wedding, except to say: "As far as I know, they will be married."

The blond, 21-year-old socialite arrived home by plane Saturday from Chicago, where she turned up after vanishing from New Jersey last Tuesday.

At first, she told police she had been abducted, but later admitted the story was a hoax.

The FBI says she "sort of exploded" from the tension of elaborate wedding preparations, which call for a candlelight ceremony, 500 guests, and a specially designed wedding dress.

Hoffa Repeats Statement He Will Sue Kennedy

Washington — President James R. Hoffa of the teamsters union repeated today that he is going to sue his chief congressional inquisitor, Robert Kennedy, for libel.

Hoffa said he's conferring with Edward Bennett Williams, teamsters union general counsel, and other union attorneys on the suit.

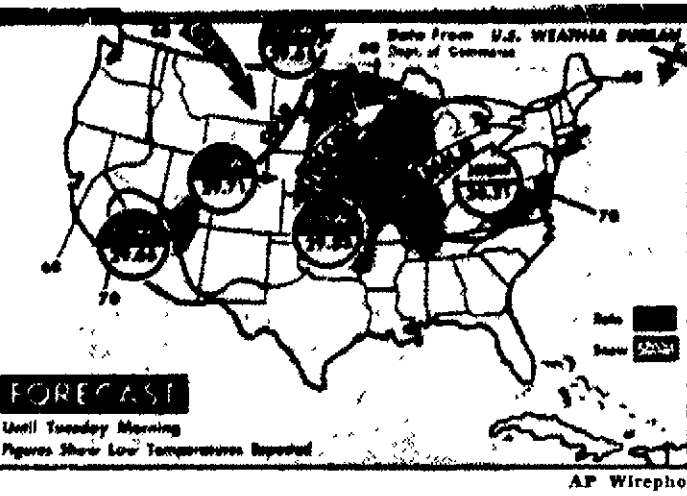

Kennedy charged last Wednesday night on NBC's Jack Paar television show that Hoffa has betrayed the teamsters membership and said this could be proved in a court of law.

Hoffa announced Friday his attorneys were working on a libel action against Kennedy, the network. Paar and others connected with the show.

There was a new round when Kennedy and Hoffa were guests yesterday on separate TV shows.

Kennedy said Hoffa has misused union funds, put gangsters on the teamsters' payroll, made deals secretly with employers, and betrayed union members.

"I would welcome a suit," Hoffa said.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms should spread tonight from the northern and central plains across most of the Mississippi valley into parts of the western lakes and Ohio valley areas. A few thunderstorms are expected in parts of the middle Atlantic states and in the southern Rockies.

Fair Weather Of Weekend Was Just Fine

The Fox Cities enjoyed a pleasant weekend with fair skies and not too warm temperatures.

Hot, humid weather is forecast until Tuesday, when the weatherman promises another cooling trend. The discomfort index at noon showed the humidity with a reading of 75. Maximum temperature over the weekend was 87.

Thundershowers promised previously for today were taken from the forecast. But other parts of the nation did not escape rain.

Splashed Sections

It splashed south central sections of the country today, the remnants of hurricane Debora, and showery weather also was in prospect for many other areas.

The tropical storm, which caused damage estimated at millions of dollars along the Texas coast when it struck Friday and Saturday, dumped more than 15 inches of rain in some areas.

In the wake of the storm, a belt of heavy showers and squally winds hit areas yesterday from the gulf coast northward into Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri.

Stillwater Drenched

The Oklahoma highway patrol reported Stillwater, Okla., was drenched with an unofficial fall of eight inches of rain in a three-hour period.

The rain belt during the night spread from central Oklahoma eastnortheastward into parts of the central Ohio valley. Heavy rain was indicated during the day in parts of Oklahoma and Kansas, with a general shower belt in the central gulf states, lower Mississippi valley and nearby areas in the plains.

Afternoon thundershowers were predicted in widely scattered sections extending into much of the high mountains of the Rockies and into the Sierras and southern California mountains and desert region.

But fair weather was the outlook in New England, most of the west coast and Pacific northwest.

It was a little warmer in the great lakes region and in parts of the northern plains but little temperature change was reported in other parts of the country. Temperatures were in the 90s in the northern high plains yesterday, with the mercury climbing above 100 in parts of Montana.

Most Fox Cities Area Legislators Unenthusiastic About Surtax Rise

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—Fox Cities area legislative representatives, a majority of them Republicans, responded with little enthusiasm to the legislature's decision to boost state income tax rates.

The delegation split on the compromise decision to raise the income surtax rate from 20 to 25 per cent and to balance the state's first year budget.

State Sen. William A. Draheim, Neenah, senate finance committee chairman, vehemently opposed the 25 per cent surtax and favored continuing with 20 per cent. He had introduced the continuation June 29, since the old one was to expire June 30.

Motion to Kill
Draheim moved to kill the higher surtax but later withdrew his motion and joined with seven other Republicans in the 24 to 8 vote which passed the increase.

He said this morning he thought the governor should veto some spending bills and he criticized both Republicans and Democrats for their spending programs. A 20 per cent surtax would be sufficient, he said, if the governor were to use his veto power.

"Then in the fall when the legislature reconvenes, we could survey the situation. The special tax study committee should have its report to the legislature by then," he added.

Proponent Speaks
One of the proponents of the surtax, Assemblyman William T. Sullivan, Kaukauna, said the increase was necessary to "make up the deficit."

"We increased state aids to schools very materially, which will mean a reduction of the real estate tax in support of local schools," he said. "We had to make up the difference some place."

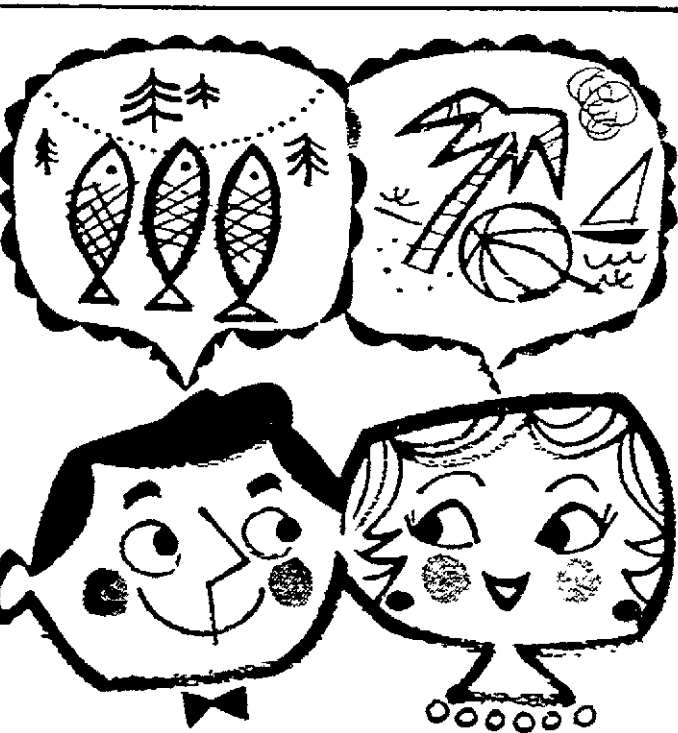

"Because the legislature denied the governor other tax increases and in order to make up the deficit, I felt obliged to vote for the very small increase in the surtax," he added.

Cane Opposed
Assemblyman Arnold J. Cane, Menasha Republican, said, "It was rather ridiculous."

Amendment Defeated
Because Mayor Ivan Nestigen of Madison, author of the city amendment, is a close friend of Gov. Nelson, it is thought that he may ask the governor to veto the bill. In that event the issue could be reviewed in the fall or the 1961 legislative session. Or the governor could sign the bill and ask for adjustment for the annexation of all pur-
